FROM GEN. SHERIDAN.

Enormous Destruction of Rebel Property.

The James River Canal Demolished as far East as Goochland.

Fifteen Miles of the Virginia Central Railroad Destroyed.

Bridges Over the South Anna Burned.

Gallant Charge by the Fifth United States Cavalry.

[OFFICIAL.]

War Department,
Washington, March 17, 1865—3 P. M.

Maj.-Gen. Sheridan reports, on the 15th inst., from the bridge of the Richmond and Fredericksburgh Railroad, across the South Anna River, that having destroyed the James River Canal as far to the east as Goochland, he marched up the Virginia Central Railroad at Tollsville, and destroyed it down to Beaver Dam station, totally destroying fifteen miles of the road.

Gen. Custer was then sent to Ashland, and Gen. Devin to the South Anna bridges, all of which have been destroyed.

Gen. Sheridan says the amount of property destroyed in his march is enormous. The enemy attempted to prevent his burning the Central Railroad bridge over the South Anna, but the Fifth United States Cavalry charged up to the bridge, and about thirty men dashed across on foot, driving off the enemy and capturing three pieces of artillery, twenty-pounder Parrots.

The Enemy Again Quiescent—They Don't Intend an Attack Nor to Evacuate—They will Rely Upon Defensive Operations to Prolong the War—Stampede of Sutlers—Expectations of a Spring Campaign—Good Weather—Rumors and Surmises.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Thursday, March 16—A. M.

Notwithstanding the extensive movements and seemingly bellicose interims of Gen. Lee's army during the greater part of Tuesday and the night succeeding, and of which full accounts were forwarded to the Times yesterday morning, the present state of the enemy's camps betoken anything but an attack upon our lines, and still less that they are preparing to evacuate their positions in front of Petersburgh.

It now appears that all the movements observable within their lines, and against which preparations were promptly and properly made upon our part, simply resolve themselves into a series of changes in position, and the retirement from their front lines of disaffected troops.

This evidenced itself at once on an inspection of the enemy's lines, and did not need the corroboration of rebel deserters to make one understand and believe that no intentions were entertained of making an attack upon our lines, nor an evacuation of Petersburgh was contemplated.

Defensive operations seem to be the sum and substance of their future plan of operations. They evidently count upon our assuming, at an early day, an extensive scheme of aggressive movements, and are, no doubt, of the firm belief that we will risk defeat by hurling great masses of men against their fortifications. But they are reckoning without their host. The Lieutenant-General will assuredly execute a magnificent series of combined movements, and at the same time outflank and compel hurried and disastrous retreat on their part. He will keep them on the constant rack and torture of suspense, terrify and bewilder their scattered senses by rapid marches, and, like the pugilist, spar for an opening, which gained, let go his right and left with rapid and repeated blows. However, we are now on the very threshold of an active campaign, and it will not long need surmise and speculation to determine the plans and method of our future scheme of operations.

The recent orders for all sutlers and other traders to leave the limits of the army and report at City Point to Gen. Patrick, occasioned considerable excitement and bustle among that peculiar class. Many amusing scenes were observable, and several frantic and excited gentry could be seen running to and fro imploring transportation for their goods and chattels. At Warren, Patrick and Humphrey Stations immense piles of merchandise were collected during all of yesterday, and the scenes in the immediate vicinity of those depots were at once laughable and exciting.

It only needed a glance at the platforms of those station to see the immense trade carried on by sutlers oystermen, newsmen, barbers and photographers. Hundreds of wagons passing backward and forward loaded down with the residue of stocks still unsold, and whole trains of cars filled with stores of every kind, tents, boxes, barrels and packages of every known description, and to an extent not to be believed, except on personal evidence.

As regards the different headquarters and camps at which these traders were wanted, they were deserted, and the land knoweth them not. Only a beggarly show of empty boxes and barrels are to be seen scattered about where their tents once stood. Round and amongst which sad traces of departed enterprise can be seen wandering a few disconsolate soldiers, who mourn the departure of so much comfort and luxury.

THE SPRING CAMPAIGN.

We all are in constant expectation of the opening of the ensuing Spring campaign, and you may rest well assured that any number of plans and schemes of operations are daily discussed. It would be useless, though perhaps amusing, to repeat any of these stories, for it is needless to say that they ar without any foundation in truth. The army is now stripped for any movement that may be ordered, and you may rest in the calm reliance that the gallant armies now operating under the immediate eye of Gen. Grant will not shame their glorious record in the past, for they burn to end the war by still more illustrious deeds of arms.

We are in the enjoyment of very charming weather, and although a smart and rather heavy shower fell yesterday afternoon, still it did not do any damage to the roads, but merely served to lay the clouds of dust that the wind sent flying over the camps and fields.

The usual number of vague rumors and reports are flying about, but, as they lack authority, I omit them. I understand that it was confidently asserted at City Point, yesterday, "that the Army of the Potomac had moved, and were not anywhere near their old lines. If the army has moved, your correspondent has not, and I leave it to the judgment of your readers as to the truth of such rumors.

It seems to be definitely settled that Gen. Sheridan has succeeded in reaching White House landing. Rations have been sent forward to meet him.

GEORGE F. WILLIAMS.

RIGHT WING.

Apparent Explanation of the Enemy's movements—No Intention to Attack us—Sheridan reported to be at White House Landing—Preparations for Active Operations—The Mining Story Exploded—A New Provost-Marshal-General of this Army, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Right Wing Army Potomac,
Thursday, March 16—8 A. M.

It seems to-day that the movements within the enemy's lines, which I noticed yesterday morning, as occasioning considerable excitement here, meant neither an intention to fight nor evacuate. They were simply changing the position of troops on their line, and this morning their tents were all up again, and their force in our front as usual. Their reason for shifting the troops is most likely to prevent desertions. The troops from the Carolinas, which were on the front opposite this wing have been most probably removed to the rear, and their places supplied by Virginia and Alabama regiments. Similar changes are observed opposite our centre, where the Sixth Corps is located. It is a noticeable fact that since Gen. Sherman took Savannah, the great majority of deserters reported here hail from South Carolina. As soon as the rebel soldiers ascertain that their houses are within our lines, they are seized with an uncontrollable inclination to desert, showing palpably that their retention in the rebel ranks is compulsory. Otherwise these would be the very circumstances under which they would fight more desperately, when their own State is invaded and the safety of their own homes jeopardized.

Deserters declare positively that there is no intention on the part of the rebels to attack us in this position. They expect us to make the initiative this Spring, and assault them in their intrenchments. They also declare that there is no longer any appearance of an intention to evacuate their position on our front. Their determination seems to be to hold Richmond to the last—to make it the "last ditch." This story is corroborated by observation from this side, notwithstanding the rumors to the contrary. They are said to be bringing heavy supplies into Richmond, to enable themselves to resist a lengthy siege; and the supplies sent thence some days ago were forwarded to their armies in the vicinity of Lynchburgh. The same allowance must be made for these statements as would be made for the declarations of a soldier of this army who should pretend to unfold the plans and define the intentions of Gen. Grant. The deserters cannot know positively of many things they speak. They can only give their opinions, predicated upon what they see and hear, and are always liable to make mistakes.

A deserter who came in on Tuesday night, earnestly desired to be retained in this army for a day or so, to await his uncle who promised to follow him at the earliest possible moment. He states that not only the soldiers of Lee's army, but the people everywhere throughout the South are extremely despondent. They no longer hope for success, and are much opposed to a cruel and useless prolongation of the struggle. He says that his father wrote to him and his uncle some weeks ago, advising them to desert, as the cause was hopeless; and that many of his comrades have been advised by their friends to pursue a similar course of conduct. The call of the rebel Government on the citizens to furnish rations to the soldiers is said to meet with a very tardy response. The people think they have already invested too much in the prosecution of a war, which cannot but terminate unsuccessfully; and in which, if the contrary result should possibly be achieved, they can no longer discern how they would be personally benefited in any particular.

I have hunted assiduously for the men or man who saw negroes doing picket duty on the rebel side, and am persuaded that the statement to that effect in a letter which was published in the Northern papers a few days ago, was a "sell." The remark that they were discovered in front of the First Corps, is sufficient to stamp the story as untrue, for the reason that there is no such organization in existence. The same letter also states that four deserters from the rebels were shot while attempting to get into our lines. This cannot be the case, as it is a remarkable circumstance that amongst the large number who have come over this Winter, none have been known to be injured, and but very few detected and arrested.

A rumor was circulated here on Tuesday evening that Gen. Sheridan had arrived at White House Landing with his army, and sent to City Point for pontoons, to enable him to effect a crossing. I am now informed that his request has been complied with, and that pontoons and supplies were forwarded yesterday. He is expected to form a junction with the Army of the James, but will probably confine his operations to the north of Richmond.

The excitement I allude to is occasioned by the issuance of the customary orders prepartory to entering upon an active campaign. Many persons see in these preparations evident intentions on the part of the Lieutenant-General to start hither or thither at a moment's notice, and by continued revolving of these imaginations in their own minds, come to believe them truths, and assert them to be such.

The story that the rebels had undermined two of our principal forts, seems to have been untrue. No traces of such operations have yet been discovered, and the garrisons no longer dread the terrific fate which befell the occupants of the rebel redoubt we blew up last July. Their conviction that they are not in any danger of such a catastrophe is so complete that they sleep soundly in their beds.

Brig.-Gen. Mason, formerly Colonel of the Twentieth Massachusetts Volunteers, has been appointed Provost-Marshal-General of the Army of the Potomac, and entered upon the performance of his duties to-day. Gen. Mason is one of the most gallant and meritorious officers of this army, and owes his promotions and this appointment solely to his bravery and personal services. He lost his arm in consequence of a wound received at the battle of the Weldon Railroad last August.

HENRY H. YOUNG.

FROM CITY POINT.

The Weather—A Deserter Executed—Exchanged Prisoners.

From Our Own Correspondent.

City Point, Va., Friday, March 10, 1865.

Yesterday the pelting rain continued, and all through the night, but this afternoon the wind veered round to the north, bringing us cold bracing air, cloudless skies and a bright moonlight night. Let us hope that, for a while at any rate, we shall escape the watery visitation from which we have so long been suffering.

This, the rebel day of fasting and prayer, with thanksgiving, has been marked by the first piece of positive news they have given us for some time past respecting events in North Carolina, in which you will find that they claim a victory over us at Kinston, involving the loss to us of many killed and wounded, three pieces of artillery and fifteen hundred prisoners. We must, of course, take this for gospel until we hear our own side of the story. If it should, perchance, turn out that matters are directly the reverse, and that downright defeat has been temporarily christened by the name of victory, it would not be the first time that we have met so strange a misnomer in war news from Southern sources. Still, for the present, we have no means—here at any rate—of gainsaying their assertions.

Another deserter forfeited his life to-day near City Point, at the same spot where the last execution occurred. The name of the wretched man was Wm. T. Griffin, alias George Bolter, of Company C, Eighth Delaware Volunteers. He was found guilty of the crime of desertion, by a court-martial, of which Lieut.-Col. R. E. Winslow, Sixty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers, was President, and sentenced "to be shot to death with musketry, at such time and place as the commanding General may direct, two-thirds of the members concurring therein." It appears that to the crime of deserting he added that of being a bounty-jumper. After deserting from the Eighth Delaware, he reënlisted for the sake of getting the bounty, and was recognized here, some three weeks ago, right in front of the barracks, by one of the officers of his old regiment, and was immediately arrested.

The whole of the mournful proceedings connected with the execution were under the charge of Capt. John Savage, and carried out by strict military rule.

About noon—the time appointed for the event—a large concourse of soldiers, officers and citizens, on horseback and on foot, had collected on the spot, in spite of the almost knee-deep mud through which they had to wade. Three sides of a hollow square were formed, in the usual manner, the coffin being placed in the centre of the blank side. After being paraded through the dense avenues of his fellow-soldiers forming the three sides of the square, to the sound of solemn music, he was marched up to the fatal spot where his empty coffin lay yawning to receive him. Here he received the last spiritual consolation from Rev. Mr. Street, Chaplain of the Twentieth New-York, and prepared to meet his dreadful doom. The firing party selected for the purpose was composed entirely of men of his own regiment and company, eight being detailed to do the fatal work, and four held back as a reserve.

The unfortunate man met his doom very bravely. When asked, by Capt. Savage, if he would be blindfolded or not, he replied distinctly in the negative, and his wish was complied with. Being called upon to make any remarks he might desire, he said he was once a Lieutenant in a New-York Battery, acknowledged the justice of the sentence that had been passed upon him, but wound up by saying that he died "in defence of his country." What the poor fellow could have meant by dying for her, in such a manner, it is difficult to imagine; unless it was that she might be benefited by his example deterring others from so dreadful a fate. He then deliberately sat down upon the foot end of his open coffin, ready to receive his lifeless body; the word was given to fire, and at one effective volley, the corpse fell backward into its receptacle.

The Gen. Washington, from Aiken's Landing, brought down to-day 160 of our returned prisoners, under the care of Dr. J. S. Maurar. They were, without exception the most awful-looking specimens of humanity that I ever beheld; mere breathing skeletons—such hideous spectres as we would expect to see, could so many graves suddenly yield up their dead. I did not see one man whose dull, waxy eyes, if not showing the glaze of coming death upon them, did not seem to betoken something even more horrible, and show no bright reason for ever dethroned, through those windows of the soul. Their listless, joyless, despairing glare, as we passed them, looked as if the poor fellows were too far gone to be sensible even of friendly sympathy and attention. They have been so long with one foot literally in the grave, that they seemed neither to know or care whether they were still actual denizens of this living active world.

Two poor fellows died in coming on board the George Washington, two more died between Aiken's Landing and this place, and their corpses were stretched out as I went on board. How many more will follow it is impossible to say, but, to an unpracticed eye, it is inconceivable that any can survive. Some were fairly rotting away with scurvy; one poor boy was having the mortified parts of his frost-bitten feet washed away by a nurse; some were all but naked when they came on board, and some of those who had clothes on were in so revoltingly filthy a condition that Dr. Maurar had to strip them entirely, put them in blankets, and throw their rags overboard to avoid infection. In fact, it is utterly impossible to give a fitting picture, by language, of the condition in which these poor fellows were sent to us; and yet, only yesterday, on the very same spot, I saw hundreds of returned rebel prisoners going by, laughing, joking, and chaffing passers-by on the wharf—exulting in the robust health which they had gained in their Northern prisons.

Dr. Maurar having found himself in much need of many comforts for the poor patients intrusted to his charge, dropped alongside of the United States Sanitary Commission barge when he got to City Point. There he was instantly supplied with 160 suits of flannel shirts, drawers and stockings, stimulants, jellies, preserved meats and everything that he considered fit to administer to those under his gentle and responsible care. The Washington remained just long enough to transfer these good Samaritan articles to her deck, and then sped onward, in her career of mercy to Annapolis, with her mournful freight.

Sight-seers—The Enemy Restless—Exchanging Papers.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Wednesday, March 15—9 A. M.

City Point is rapidly becoming the fashionable rendezvous of sight-seers. Scarcely one party leaves before another comes; and they in turn, after taking a ride round our fortifications, and seeing the grand preparations of war, give way to another batch of visitors. This morning a party of 60 distinguished ladies and gentlemen arrived here early. Among them were Senators Wilson, Doolittle, Trumbull, Wade, Gov. Remsay, and a number of others whose names I have not yet heard. If they remain here only a few days longer, they are likely to see not only the paraphernalia, but the practical working of active war.

The enemy are very restless along our left front, marching and countermarching, and keeping our men constantly on the qui vive. I find here, too, everything in that quiet, ominous state, which foretells the approach of a storm. The sutlers, those war-barometers, are gradually falling back from front to safety in the rear, and everything looks like a coming struggle—desperate it will be, too, when it does come. But let others cling to what theories they please, I still hang to mine, and that is, that as Richmond must very soon be evacuated, or the enemy must come out and fight us at a disadvantage, these restless movements on their part may be only intended to occupy us while Jeff. Davis and his crew quietly creep out of the only back door—now left to them. But even that will fail; for, at the very first move, they will find a terrible and never-failing enemy at their heels.

I think some decided measure will be taken to bring the rebels to reason respecting the exchange of papers. We here cannot receive Northern papers before they are one or two days old, and if they are not content to exchange with us upon the old terms, the probability is we wont exchange with them at all. Who will suffer most, let them judge, who are entirely cut off from the civilized world, and can only, through us, have any idea whatever of what is going on beyond their own little hermetically-sealed pandemonium.

Speculation in Boston.

Boston, Friday March 17.

There has been some excitement here to-day over the decline in gold, but it has been confined to speculators whose names do not appear on the tax list as responsible for incomes of $600 per year. Business men were generally fully prepared for a fall in prices, and it is submitted to without manifestation of panic or failure.

Loyal Feeling in the City—Sherman's Progress—Suffering at Columbia—Proving Loyalty—Military Orders—Extortioners.

Charleston, S. C. Sunday, March 12, 1865.

The people in this city really evince a loyal feeling. If one was astonished to witness the cordial reception given to the Union troops on their entrance into the place, he would most assuredly clap his hands with delight to perceive how unanimous is the public expression in favor of reëstablishing and maintaining the laws and orders of the United States Government. This change of sentiment has not been brought about by pretentious threats. The people have been informed through the orders issued at the military headquarters, that if they studied their own interests they would not hesitate to take the oath of allegiance to the United States, and settle down into quiet and peaceable citizens. The suggestion was all that was required to produce the result. I may walk the streets of Charleston to-day and be unable to meet a single man who is willing to throw his influence on the side of the rebellion. It has been remarked that the wealthy and leading men of the city have taken up residences in the interior, or at any rate, have fled the place rather than remain among Union soldiers and loyal citizens. Such is not the case. I can count among the present inhabitants of Charleston men whose councils have always been sought, and whose opinions on the military and political aspects of the day are worthy of the most profound attention. As to wealth I will venture the remark that the men who remain in Charleston to welcome back the old flag are far better off in purse than those who followed the fortunes of the rebel army. Parties who removed goods and furniture to some country town with a view of saving the same, have been sadly disappointed in their anticipations. What Wheeler's rebel cavalry did not plunder and destroy has probably been taken care of by Sherman's men. The Union army did not start on their campaign through South Carolina with the intention of handling the inhabitants or their effects with silk gloves. If the wealthy men of Charleston left that city on principle, or for the purpose of saving their property, many of them have possibly seen ere this the error they committed. The latest accounts we have from the interior are to the effect that Kilpatrick is sweeping the country about Augusta, fore and aft. His cavalry are visiting every town of importance, creating waste and devastation wherever they go. The citizens are terrified to a degree beyond conception. While some run in agony from one town to another, others sit in their houses in mute despair. In Augusta the wildest excitement has prevailed ever since it was known that Sherman had occupied Branchville. The prices of provisions and all kinds of commodities suddenly advanced to enormous figures, and no one could get accommodations at the hotels without paying in advance the fabulous sum of sixty and seventy dollars per day. In Augusta the rebels have stored an immense quantity of cotton and tobacco. It is said the value of this kind of property amounts to millions of dollars. One hundred thousand bales of cotton are stored on the account of the rebel Government; the remainder belongs to private parties. Some days ago the military officer in command of Augusta directed the cotton to be taken down to the wharves for the purpose of firing it, but the people sent a protest to Beauregard, who countermanded the order for the destruction.

We hear the most distressing statements concerning the condition of affairs at Columbia. The people are represented to be actually in a state of starvation. The rebels, when they evacuated the city, took with them nearly everything in the shape of food, not even allowing to the women and children a moderate quantity of rice or meal. The Mayor made an effort to obtain from the farmers in the vicinity of Columbia a small supply of provisions, but found that Wheeler's men did not spare them with the rest from a wholesale system of robbery. Wade Hampton, after burning his own dwelling, had cotton bales laid in the streets and fired. The flames communicated with fearful rapidity to the houses on either side, and when the result of the conflagration was estimated, the tale was told that out of fourteen hundred buildings only one hundred remain standing. It was then that the youth and beauty of Charleston gathered to avoid contact with the Union soldiers, and it was just there where the Union soldiers had the unbounded pleasure of displaying to the gaze of the fair ones the magestic ensign of the United States. The citizens of Columbia, now weeping and wailing in repentance, are anxious to return to Charleston, with a hope of finding food to eat and raiment to wear. Fifty females have already started on the journey.

By order of Col. Stewart L. Woodford, commandant of the post of Charleston, all citizens who desire any favors whatever from the authorities, are required, before they make their application, to take the oath of allegiance. The order is so strict that they cannot even take a letter from the post-office without having first subscribed to the oath. It is due to the inhabitants to state that they evince the utmost willingness to pronounce their loyalty to the Union. As a consequence, the office at which the oath is administered is thronged with a crowd of applicants from the time the door is opened in the morning till it closes at night. The long line of waiters on the sidewalk reminds one of a scene before a post-office window. Ladies, as well as gentlemen, are anxious to prove their loyalty. The first one to take the oath was a lady. The spirit thus exhibited is a decidedly encouraging sign of the times. I believe that before many weeks have elapsed not a man will be found in the city who has not taken the oath, and I believe it will be done, too, not because the parties are simply desirous of saving their property; but because they have confidence in the stability of the United States Government.

All over the city, on the roofs of houses, in windows, and on poles, we see the "stars and stripes" conspicuously displayed. This course seems to have been adopted by the citizens to protect themselves from annoyance from the soldiers. It originated, I believe, from the circumstance of a lady going to the office of Col. Woodford the other day and asking for a guard of men to protect her premises. The advice she received was to return home and put over the door the American flag as the best and safest mode of keeping away inquisitive soldiers; for having shown her colors, the soldiers would be satisfied as to what her sentiments were. This advice the lady acted upon, and communicated the happy result to her neighbors who were not slow to follow the example, and thus the display has become general over the city. It is pleasing to observe, however, that the confusion which unavoidably existed during the first few days of the occupation of the city by the Union troops, is now changed to order and regularity. Orders have been issued prohibiting any one unauthorized from headquarters, entering dwellings for the purpose of removing furniture. This order has allayed the fears of the citizens who thought for a time that they were to be deprived of every article of furniture in their possession.

Recruiting agents are doing a lively business. The colored men flock to the recruiting offices by the dozen, and eagerly have themselves enlisted. Two hundred have been known to enlist in one day. It is amusing to observe how readily they yield to the persuasions of their kindred in arms. Bounty-money, allowances, rations, soldier-clothes, chevrons, all have an influence in inducing the colored men to enter the ranks. Of course, the holders of slaves were greatly vexed at first to see their servants leaving them without asking consent, but finally they became accustomed to the word "freedmen," and, in order to make the best of what they could not prevent, declared themselves pleased to get rid so easily of a nuisance. By this process, one man was made pleased by having seven of his slaves bid him "good-bye," and another party, on the same principle, must have been perfectly delighted to see fifty of his servants march off to join the Union army. The men thus enlisted are sent to different portions of the department, where they are drilled by experienced officers in the manual and field exercise. Several regiments of colored men have been recently formed.

The frequency of fires in the city has been the remark of nearly everyone. At one time it was thought that the rebels had detailed some of their own men to remain here, for the purpose of causing all possible destruction, but the impression now prevails that the fires are caused by boys and vagrants, who are anxious to secure wood for fuel. Last week we had no less than six fires, two of which occurred in one night. The buildings, however, were located on the streets leading to the wharves, and were not occupied. Fortunately, we have several well-organized fire companies, who repair promptly to the scene of the fires. The rascals, both old and young, who are engaged in this incendiarism, are preparing for themselves a very pretty difficulty, as they will find to their sorrow, should any of them be detected. It is the duty of the citizens to join the authorities in trying to put a stop to this useless destruction of property. It seems at times as though Charleston was fated to be thoroughly cleaned out with fire, no matter what is done to prevent it.

An order has recently been issued by Brig.-Gen. John P. Hatch, Commandant of the Northern District, Department of the South, appointing Dr. A. G. Mackey City Inspector, and S. D. Kirk, J. T. Milligan, E. Shosler, and G. Plonger Assistant Inspectors. These gentlemen are residents of the city, and, I believe, all of them have at some time held civil offices. Under their charge a force of laborers has been employed to clean the streets all through the city. This work has not been commenced a day too soon to insure the safety of the place against yellow fever and other epidemics. The streets are sadly out of repair, and it will be a long time before the material can be procured to place them in a good traveling condition. On Broad-street the cobble-stones were removed by the rebels to build the foundation of Castle Pinckney. These stones will all be brought back and relaid. The laborers have already accumulated huge piles of debris and dirt in the streets at the lower end of the city. Buildings rendered unsafe from being excessively shelled will be pulled down and the material used in repairing others. Just now there is a great demand for mechanics to work on damaged buildings. Judging from the number of buildings shattered and riddled, I think that a reasonable number of masons, carpenters, plumbers, and, in fact, men of all trades which have to do with refitting and building houses, will have enough work to keep them employed for several years.

A number of traders have taken it into their heads to violate an order prohibiting the sale of liquors. The other day the proprietors of a restaurant on King-street were invited by the Provost-Marshal to close their establishment and walk up to his headquarters, and, in order to defray expenses, pay, in the shape of a fine, the sum of $500. The barrels from which the liquor had been drawn were rolled into the street and the heads knocked out. This summary proceeding will doubtless have a beneficial effect on other traders, who have been engaged in like traffic.

We also have amongst us extortioners. A poor woman applied at a baker's for a loaf of bread, and was asked to pay 25 cents for it. She reported the fact to Col. Woodford, who directed Capt. Haviland, Post Treasurer, to investigate the case. It appeared by the evidence that the baker purchased the bread of a man at 20 cents a loaf, and that this man paid $40 a barrel for the flour. The case ended by the baker paying $10, and the flour merchant $25, to Capt. Haviland, to be placed with the post fund. These people, who charge such extravagant prices for their commodities, will soon be taught that they have not rebel customers to deal with.

On Friday last a number of Union officers contributed the sum of one hundred dollars, which they presented to Mr Cornelius H. Webb, a resident of this place and a thorough-going Union man. This act of generosity was induced from the fact that Mr. Webb and his wife nobly assisted the Union prisoners who were confined in Charleston jail last Summer. Mr. Webb having been reduced to a state of penury the officers gave him the money that he might expend it in the purchase of tools with which he could carry on his business. I am surprised to learn how many instances have been brought to light where Union prisoners have been aided by faithful yet unknown friends. There are men in this city who have given our men, while prisoners, thousands and thousands of dollars, for which they have received in return a simple promissory note. It is another evidence of the Union feeling existing in the city when the rebels declared that here was to be the last ditch.

Capt. Charles O. Boutelle, Assistant Coast Surveyor and Acting Lighthouse Inspector, announces to the public that the lights have been relighted on Fort Sumter, Castle Pinckney and at White Point Garden. Castle Pinckney shows a red light as formerly. Other facilities for navigation in the harbor will be speedily established.

A painful marine accident occurred last week in Georgetown harbor. While a small boat, containing ten men of the gunboat Juniata, was coming over the bar, it was struck and capsized by a squall, causing the loss of nine of the men.

The premium on gold and silver has been again regulated by Col. Woodford so that for the former 75 cents is allowed, and for the latter 50 cents. Last week the circulation of coin was considerably less than it was the week preceding. As greenbacks make their way into the market, the coin disappears. Some traders have taken in $100 a day in gold and silver.

Under the superintendence of Mr. A. H. Markland, special agent of the Post-office Department, a post-office has been established at the corner of King and George streets. The mails are now sent regularly to all points in the department, and to the North. As yet, the clerks have had little to do, but in a few weeks they will doubtless have all the work they can attend to.

The Adams Express Company have established a branch of their house on Broad-street. It will be under the management of Mr. A. A. Rice, a gentleman of acknowledged business talent and ability. Mr. W. W. Elmendorf, an attaché of the company for a number of years, will have the immediate charge of the Charleston office.

Posters pasted on buildings and fences announce to the public that Military Hall has been engaged for theatrical purposes by Messrs. Strahan & Parks. The troupe will probably arrive from New-York during the coming week. Capt. Strahan served three years and over in the Third Rhode Island Artillery Regiment, and had much to do with the siege against Sumter and Charleston. He is by no means unfamiliar with the "boards," neither is his partner, Mr. Parks, who has lately performed an engagement in Boston. We wish every success to these enterprising gentlemen, who have so kindly volunteered to furnish the public with dramatic entertainments. The old theatre was burned down at the time of the great fire, as was also Mechanics' Hall. The only places now suitable for entertainments are Hibernian and Military Halls, and they require considerable repairing.

As yet, none of the hotels have been opened. It is understood that the Mills House and the Charleston Hotel will be converted into hospitals. The furniture and appointments belonging to those houses were removed to Columbia and Augusta before the evacuation of the city. Parties from the North have made an application to open the Pavilion Hotel, and in a short time we expect to see it filled with guests.

Brig.-Gen. Potter still holds the advance, somewhere in the vicinity of the Santee River. His scouts travel all over that section of the country. The Santee River is some distance beyond Sommerville, a small place on the South Carolina Railroad. He has had no fighting of moment since he left Charleston. The people in the vicinity are very willing to take the oath of allegiance. Some complaints have been made to the authorities concerning depredations committed by negroes, but, on the whole, it is considered that the negroes, under the circumstances, are remarkably orderly. The cars run daily to Sommerville, taking up troops and supplies; returning, they bring to the city refugees, deserters and families.

The Philadelphia, Admiral Dahlgren's flagship, lies off Adger's Wharf. A report has gained some currency in the navy that the Admiral intends going North very soon. A number of vessels have been sent thither, and others are to follow.

For the past three weeks we have been visited with torrents of rain, the effect of which has been to make the streets almost impassable in consequence of mud and mire. To-day the sky is clear, and indications are propitious that we shall have a season of delightful weather. Fruit trees, the few there are, are in full bloom. The gardens attached to some of the mansions present a most enchanting appearance with their profusion of rare and delicate flowers.

Reopening of Business—The Famous 600-pounder Blakely Guns—Rebel Torpedo Boats—The Harbor Obstructions.

From the New-South, March 11.

Since the occupation of Charleston by the Union troops, traders have evinced a desire to reopen their stores and establish their own business. This desire on their part is very commendable and has been encouraged by the military authorities who have issued orders assuring them of protection. A good opportunity for engaging in business is now open, and nothing, so far as has been discovered, is in the way of making Charleston to approach to something like its former activity.

An object which arrests the attention of all is the fragments of the 600-pounder Blakely guns which were mounted on the wharf batteries. In erecting those batteries the rebels built a high board fence on the edge of the work. During the siege only one of these guns was fired, and at that time it cracked near the breech so as to require a heavy iron band to be welded on the fractured part. This gun when exploded purposely on the morning of the evacuation, remained whole at the breech, and the part on which the iron band was placed proved to be the strongest part of the piece. The other 600-pounder, which was mounted on an earthwork, near the Battery, exploded into innumerable pieces.

The man who had charge of the work of demolishing the guns stated to the citizens that notwithstanding he was several yards in the rear, the concussion was so great as to knock him down in a senseless condition. The houses in the immediate vicinity were terribly damaged. One building particularly is completely ruined—in fact, it is considered dangerous to visit the interior of it. The windows are all smashed, and the panes of glass in them were pulverized into fine powder. The projectiles intended for these immense guns are stacked in rows in the Citadel Green. They are a curiosity to behold. The observer can scarcely believe that such a mass of iron could be forced through the air. The sound they must produce when on their flight must be fearful to listen to.

If a person shudders or cringes at the sound of a 200-pounder shell passing through the air, what effect would be produced on the same person to hear a 600-pounder shell going to its destination? When the guns were exploded, the citizens imagined that a large mine had been fired, and were momentarily expecting to witness the larger portion of the city suddenly made into a large pile of debris. With reference to the utility of the 600-pounders, Beauregard expressed it as his opinion that they would never be of service to the rebel Government, and the facts have sustained this belief. The little 32-pounder which the Third Rhode Island boys had to play with on the city, and which was mounted at Cummings' Point, did more execution than any number of 600-pounders which the rebels could have brought to bear upon us.

The rebel torpedo boats seem to have been a totalf failure. On the morning of the evacuation, four of these machines were fired and destroyed, in order to prevent them from falling into our hands. The citizens say the torpedoes were never of much account. None were more surprised than the rebels to learn that the Patapsco had been destroyed by a torpedo. They declare that the whole affair must have been the result of accident. The bay and the Cooper and Ashley Rivers, for some miles up, have been pretty thoroughly searched for torpedoes by the navy, but as far as can be learned, they have not succeeded as yet in fishing up any of the machines, and the people of Charleston are inclined to believe that the torpedoes which were sunk a long time ago have been carried seaward by the effect of the tide.

The probability is, that, should any be found, the powder within them will be so caked that it would be impossible to ignite it. The obstructions consist of a single line of piles driven in the bay, at a point some distance above Sumter. The line reaches from island to island, and has a space sufficiently wide to admit the passage of vessels. No difficulty has yet been experienced by vessels coming up the harbor.

From Fortress Monroe—Sherman's Movements—Congressional Excursions.

Fortress Monroe, Thursday, March 16.

The steamer Perit arrived this morning from Wilmington.

Communications had been opened with Gen. Sherman's army at Fayetteville from Wilmington, and it was thought that a junction of his forces with Gen. Schofield's army would soon be effected.

A large party of Senators and Representatives arrived here last evening from Washington on the steamer Thomas Collyer, and sailed to-day for Hilton Head on a pleasure tour to Charleston and Savannah on the steamer Fulton.

The President's Order Abroad.

New-York, Friday, March 17.

The following dispatch was received to-day from a prominent gentleman in Halifax, who has always labored hard for the Union cause:

"Every honest provincial hails with satisfaction President Lincoln's order relative to foreigners and aiders of rebellion. It is time some distinction was made between decent people and the aiders and abettors of pirates and robbers."

The Railroads in Pennsylvania.

Harrisburgh, Penn., Friday, March 17.

The damage to the Pennsylvania Railroad by the flood has been slight, and trains are running again regularly east of this city. In the vicinity of Highspire the railroad track is still covered with water, and the extent of damage cannot be ascertained; but the through trains will be run via the Reading and Junction Railroad, arriving at and departing from the depot at West Philadelphia as usual.

Feat of an Iron-Clad.

Boston, Friday, March 17.

A private letter announces the arrival at Hampton Roads of the monitor Monadnock, in 76 hours from Port Royal, towing the steamer Mohican a portion of the way, the latter having broken down off Cape Hatteras. The writer says this achievement by an iron-clad is unparalleled in naval history.

U. S. Steamer Shenandoah.

Philadelphia, Friday March 17.

The U. S. steamer Shenandoah has arrived from Charleston. She brings no news of importance.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

—There has been very little activity in the American publishing trade during the present year, so far as the production of novelties is concerned. With a general state of business acknowledged to be highly satisfactory, there exists an apparent hesitation to venture upon new enterprises among the prominent houses, that seems difficult to reconcile with the steady demand that all good books of standard character readily meet with at the present time. Undoubtedly, the increased cost of material and manufacture has something to do with this state of apathy, in connection with the presumption that any change occurring in these particulars must be toward lower prices. The public, however, have readily met the advanced cost of books, and there is no complaint on that score, so long as the article furnished is of good quality and execution. Even announcements for the future are scanty. Good historical literature seems in the ascendant, most of the important works forthcoming being of that description, as DYER's History of Modern Europe, and Prof. GEORGE LONG's History of the Decline of the Roman Republic, to be issued by Messrs. HARPER & BROTHERS, who have also, we believe, secured the courtesy-right of republication of LOUIS NAPOLEON's Life of Julius Cæsar, at a somewhat less price than the extravagant sum at first demanded for the early copy sent over here on speculation by the English publishers, Messrs. CASSELL & Co.; Mr. C. SCRIBNER's edition of FROUDE's History of England from Henry VIII. to the Death of Queen Elizabeth, shows the prevalence of the same taste for historical research. It will be comprised in the same number of volumes as the English edition, beautifully printed in post 8vo, at the Riverside Press. FORSYTH's Life of Cicero, in two volumes octavo, is also in progress at this establishment, for the same house, and will speedily appear. An original translation of TAINE's History of English Literature, undertaken with the coöperation of the author, will be published by Messrs. SCRIBNER later in the season. Messrs. WALKER, WISE & Co., of Boston, have met with success for their first installment of Miss BOOTH's translation of HENRI MARTIN's History of France, containing the age of LOUIS XIV., in two volumes; and have announced the completion of the entire work, to form seventeen volumes octavo. Their reprint of Miss MARTINEAU's History of the Peace of 1815–'46 has also been well received, and the first edition disposed of. The Spring trade-sales are now approaching, but, from the expense of manufacturing, there is no surplus stock of books on hand in any quarter, and prices are consequently expected to rule "high."

—Mr. JOHN STUART MILL is about issuing a work that will attract the attention of thinking men. It is an Examination of Sir William Hamilton's System of Philosophy, and the principal Philosophical Questions Discussed in his Writings." Messrs. LONGMAN & Co. are the publishers.

—The demand for rare and choice books keeps pace with the abundant supply of currency, and makes itself felt perceptibly in the prices realized at auction sales, &c. On the 1st of this month, Messrs. COOLEY & LEAVITT, of Broadway, disposed of a very select and valuable collection of books, the property of a Boston gentleman, mostly relating to early English literature, and distinguished by the presence of several books with autograph annotations by LEIGH HUNT, and two that had formerly belonged to CHARLES LAMB. A very indifferent copy of Horace Walpole's Letters, in six volumes octavo, that had evidently been carefully perused by LEIGH HUNT, and was copiously marked and annotated by him, sold for about ninety-five dollars, and the other works produced proportional sums. CHARLES LAMB's books were The Works of Fulk Greville, Lord Brooke, in folio, and an octavo copy of Sir John Suckling's Poems. These sold respectively for twenty-five and fifteen dollars. The other lots were disposed of at high prices, a set of the Shakespeare Society's publications bringing one hundred and fifty dollars. In fact there can scarcely be a better investment for the realization of a handsome profit than a judiciously selected library, bought a few years ago, and now offered for the competition of our amateurs.

—SHAKESPEARE autographs have recently become comparatively plenty in the market, owing to the microscopical scrutiny with which every possible or probable source that might afford them is examined. Besides some old deeds and conveyances relating to his property at Stratford, lately discovered among a solicitor's papers at Birmingham, and an old English prayer-book, with three apparently authentic signatures of the poet, recently picked up for a few pence on the borders of Wales, the Bodleian Library has just secured an example that is allowed, by experts, to be genuine. It is a small Aldine edition of OVID's Metamorphoses, published in 1502, inscribed in the middle of the title-page with the abbreviated name of the poet, in characters much resembling those of his will. There is also on the fly leaf this corroborative note: "This little booke of OVID was given to me by W. HALL, who sayd it was once WILL SHAKESPEAR's. T. N. 1682." These names are supposed to relate to the family of his son-in-law, Dr. JOHN HALL, and his relative, THOMAS NASH. A handsome volume, Shakespeare in Germany, in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, by Mr. ALBERT COHN, just published, establishes the fact that during the poet's lifetime, his tragedies and comedies were performed by wandering companies of English actors on the Continent; and there are plays of that period extant in Germany, either borrowed directly from SHAKESPEARE, or possessing, in their plot and character, signs of affinity with his dramas. Six of these are given in Mr. COHN's work.

—Messrs. HARPER & BROTHERS have in progress from advance sheets, Dr. LIVINGSTONE's new record of African exploration. It will appear under the title, Zambesi and its Tributaries, and the Discovery of Lakes Shirra and Nyassa, 1858–1864; by DAVID LIVINGSTONE, M. D., and CHARLES LIVINGSTONE, with maps and illustrations from sketches and photographs. It will be published in octavo, uniform with Messrs. HARPERS' fine series of Travels in Africa, which includes the works of Dr. BARTH, Capts. BURTON and SPEKE, DUCHAILLU, &c.

—The growing taste for the fine arts has induced Mr. J. W. BOUGHTON, (well known as a dealer in choice books,) No. 481 Broadway, to reproduce, under the title of A Biographical History of the Fine Arts, and Memoirs of the Lives and Works of Eminent Painters, Engravers, Sculptors and Architects, the work edited about ten years since by the late Dr. SPOONER, and long entirely out of print. It will appear in an improved form, with a supplement of recently deceased artists. The plain copies are issued in two volumes, royal 8vo, at the price of $10, but to gratify the prevalent passion for illustration, one hundred sets are struck off on fine paper of royal quarto size, each containing one hundred capital photographic portraits of artists mentioned in the work. The subscription price of these copies is $40. As the number is strictly limited, they will undoubtedly command a large premium before the day of publication, at the end of the present month.

—American antiquarians are looking forward with interest for a work understood to be forthcoming from the facile pen of Mr. E. GEO. SQUIER, embodying the results of his archæological exploration of Peru, which country he lately visited as United States Commissioner for the settlement of disputed claims, under a recent treaty. No traveler, perhaps, was ever better fitted, by previous pursuits, for the investigation of a new and rich field for discovery, than Mr. SQUIER. He knew exactly what to look for, and how to appreciate what he found—his preparation, in the way of artistic help, &c., being of the most complete character. His route of exploration included most of the sites famous in the early history of the country—the Lake of Titicaca and its mythical neighborhood, Cuzco, the ancient capital of the Incas, &c., and he returns literally loaded with the products of antiquarian research, calculated to throw a flood of light on many of the most difficult questions of American Primeval History. Mr. SQUIER's conclusions differ, in many respects, from those accepted or granted because promulgated by men of great name, but he is fully able to defend his own opinions, and pays no undue deference to mere authority. Messrs. HARPER will probably be the publishers of his book.

LAW REPORTS.

Liability of Common Carriers—The Question as to Advances Made on Bills of Lading.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Before Justice Robertson.

Thomas Thatcher vs. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company.—The plaintiff is a merchant in this city. In the spring of 1861, he received through the mail, a bill of lading from the firm of Messrs. G. C. Paoli & Co., of Chicago, with whom he had been dealing for a few months; the bill being signed by one M. C. Hale, the only authorized freight agent of the defendants at Chicago. It was in the usual form of a bill of lading, and stated that he, (Hale,) as freight agent of the company at Chicago had received 250 barrels of alcohol from Messrs. Paoli & Co., consigned to the plaintiff in New-York, and to be transported thither in good condition, &c. Accompanying the bill of lading was a draft of $2,500, drawn by Messrs. Paoli & Co. on the plaintiff. The latter, on the strength of the bill of lading, accepted the draft, and it was paid. The alcohol never came to hand, and plaintiff brought the suit to recover the money advanced, with interest, he claiming that defendants were liable for the acts of their agent, Hale, who gave the bill of lading upon which the money was obtained. It also appeared in evidence that Hale was a copartner with Paoli & Co. in Chicago, though that fact was unknown to the plaintiff at the time the advance was made. It furthermore appeared that Hale had no express authority from the company to sign the bill of lading in question.

Upon this state of facts the counsel for the defendants moved for a non-suit. The court in granting the motion said that it regarded the bill of lading merely as a representation made, not to the plaintiff by Hale, the defendants' agent, but to the firm of Paoli & Co., of which firm, it appears, Hale was a member. And although it be true that plaintiff did not know of Hale's membership at the time he made the advance, still he cannot hold the railroad company for the representations in the bill of lading, which were not made to him, but to Paoli & Co., any more than he could if Hale had gone around the depot in Chicago, saying to every one, "I have a certain quantity of goods here, consigned to plaintiff in New-York, to be transported thither by the defendants' line of railroad," and on the strength of that representation he, plaintiff, had advanced the money. A bill of lading is not a negotiable contract like a check, draft, &c. If the representations in the bill of lading were false, as is claimed by the plaintiff, then the action becomes one of tort, and not in the nature of a contract, and the injured person should seek his remedy accordingly.

The case will be taken to the General Term on a case to be agreed upon, in order that an opinion may be given by a full bench.

Liabilities of Telegraph Companies in the Transmission of Messages.

SUPREME COURT.

Before Judge Clerke, without a Jury.

D. C. Wharton et al. vs. The Independent Line of Telegraph.—The Court in this action, which was tried some days since, and which has been published in the TIMES, rendered a decision for plaintiffs yesterday, granting a judgment for the full amount claimed and interest. The plaintiffs claimed that the damages they sustained were caused by the defendants' omission of the word "if" in a message from Philadelphia to New-York, which was given their agents to transmit, and was as follows: "If the Gold Bill is passed, buy $200,000," &c. When received by the person to whom it was addressed, the "if" was wanting.

Post-Office Robbery.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Osborne.

A boy named James Dorr was brought up for examination charged with procuring money letters from the post-office on a forged order. The letters were addressed to Mr. H. L. Lee, and contained about $40. The examination was set down for next week.

FRIDAY, March 17—P. M.

Lower figures, by 10 ⅌ cent., on the average sales, were made in the Gold Room to-day, as compared with Thursday. Early in the forenoon the pressure to make sales, although opening at 166½, soon amounted to a panic, and for a few minutes, near 11 o'clock A. M., the price touched 159½@160 ⅌ cent., as against 175½@176 at the same hour yesterday. The subsequent sales, however, ran up to 162½@163½@166½@168½ ⅌ cent. before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The reaction from the violent additional fall of the morning was not wholly unexpected, as a great many parties short of gold, at much higher rates, hastened to cover their contracts, and others who had been waiting a lower Exchange on Europe, came into the market to make up their remittances by Saturday's mail. The Gold Rate for Bills on London went up from 108 to 108½@109 ⅌ cent., Bankers' names, and 107½@108½ for good Merchant signatures.

At the Stock Exchange and on Wall-street the Gold-bearing Stocks of the United States were lower by 1@1½ ⅌ cent., under the panic in Gold, though this temporary decline is unimportant compared with the immense differences of the week against both Gold and its Currency equivalent in Exchange on Europe, by which the old United States 5.20s are in some degree regulated.

The Railways at the Stock Exchange, though not so well supported as yesterday, were comparatively free from a panic pressure to sell, and at the Afternoon Board were generally steady. The Miscellaneous Shares, like Cumberland Coal, suffered the heaviest decline. The extreme difference in Cumberland since Wednesday is nearly 25 ⅌ cent., or from 71 down to 46½@47 ⅌ cent. There was a subsequent recovery to 53 ⅌ cent.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with Thursday afternoon, same hour. Gold gave way again to 164½ ⅌ cent., while Governments were in request at the Board prices, and the Railways steady:

We cheerfully call the attention of our Insurance Companies, Savings Banks and capitalists to the 7 ⅌ cent. Loan of the State of New-York, now offered for the purpose of obtaining recruits for our national army, under the recent call for 300,000 men. This loan is limited to $30,000,000, but it is supposed that only a portion of this sum will be needed. The Legislature are about passing a law authorizing this loan, in the following form: They lay a State tax of 2 ⅌ cent., but if at the next general election the majority of the people vote to issue the above stock, then the tax will not be collected, but the Comptroller of the State will issue a 7 ⅌ cent. New-York State Stock, payable in twelve years, with interest payable semi-annually in the City of New-York. A committee from both branches of the Legislature, consisting of Senators FOLGER and BELL, and Assemblymen SANFORD and COLLINS, with the Comptroller, Mr. ROBINSON, met a few of our bankers and capitalists at the Manhattan Bank, and gave assurance of the prompt passage of the necessary legislation. Among other proceedings, the following action was had in furtherance of the object:

At a meeting at the Manhattan Bank, of the Comptroller of the State and a committee from each branch of the Legislature, the following gentlemen were requested to act as a committee in procuring subscriptions to a State Loan:

John C. Green, Chairman; F. S. Winston, John E. Williams, S. D. Babcock, Charles H. Russell, R. H. McCurdy, Thomas W. Olcott.

(Signed,) JAMES A BELL, Chairman.

CHAS. J. FOLGER, Secretary.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

We have news direct from SHERIDAN to the 15th inst. He writes from the railroad bridge across the South Anna, a few miles north of Richmond. He reports that he destroyed the James River Canal as far eastward as Goochland, then marched North to Tolersville, on the Virginia Central Railroad, then easterly along that road, destroying it for 15 miles. From Beavers Dam Station he sent Gen. CUSTER to Ashland and Gen. DEVINS to the South Anna, and they destroyed all the bridges over that river. This cuts off all communication between Northwestern Virginia and Richmond, while the breaking up of the canal does the same for the western part of the State, thus reducing the rebels to the Southside and Danville Railroads as their only means of supply—or escape, as things now look. The rebels made a feeble attempt to save the very important bridge on the Central Railroad over the South Anna, but they were easily repulsed, and three pieces of their artillery were captured.

The honor of first raising the flag on Sumter at the taking of Charleston, is claimed by Major JOHN A. HENNESSY, commanding the Fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers. The act was performed on Saturday morning, Feb. 18, at a quarter past eight o'clock. He claims that the Fifty-second (his regiment,) was first in Charleston, and raised the first flag there, as also on Fort Sumter, Fort Ripley and Castle Pinckney.

In Washington, yesterday, a rebel flag, captured at Fort Anderson, was presented to Gov. MORTON, of Indiana. The Governor made a brief speech, and introduced President LINCOLN, who gratified the crowd by one of his characteristic talks, an abstract of which will be found among our news from Wasnington.

A deserter from the One Hundred and Fifth Pennsylvania Volunteers yesterday morning surrendered himself to the Provost-Marshal in Washington City. This is the first case of the kind in that city since the President's proclamation of pardon was issued.

The Chicago Post says the great projected cavalry expedition (if any such expedition was ever projected) from Tennessee River to Mobile, has been abandoned, and a powerful army is concentrating under Gen. THOMAS, within the State of Tennessee, to guard the back-door of rebel escape.

JEROME CLARK, alias "Sue Mundy," was hung at Louisville on Thursday, in pursuance of his sentence. He protested that, at the time of his capture and since the commencement of the war, he has been a Confederate soldier.

Seven of WHITE's guerrillas, who have been depredating on the Virginia side of the Potomac, were yesterday captured near Fairfax Courthouse, and committed to the Old Capitol Prison.

The Potomac flotilla is still performing efficient service in preventing contraband trade, and yesterday sent to Washington two schooners, having goods on board not in the manifest.

The Fifty-sixth New-York, having volunteered for one year's service and been accepted, the regiment is busily engaged in recruiting to fill its ranks.

The Navy Department claims tne right to capture any merchant vessel returning from a blockaded port, after violating the blockade, such right to exist at any time during the return voyage.

One hundred and eighteen deserters, mostly North Carolinians, arrived in Washington, yesterday, from the Army of the Potomac.

GENERAL NEWS.

ELON COMSTOCK, well known in the editorial profession, died rather suddenly, on Thursday, in Albany. He edited and published the Rome Weekly, and afterward the Daily Sentinel—having a publication office for the latter at both Rome and Watertown, N. Y., and conducting also at the latter place the Jefferson Union. He afterward edited the Daily Argus, at Springfield, Mass. In 1857 he became connected with the New-York Journal of Commerce, as leading political writer, and remained in that position until the change of ownership in the paper. In the autumn, the proprietors of the Atlas & Argus transferred their weekly paper to New York, under the title of the New-York Argus, of which Mr. COMSTOCK took charge. After two years it was consolidated with the New-York Daily World, and the deceased remained in editorial connection with that paper until his last sickness. He was 50 years of age, and leaves a wife, an aged mother and an only brother, (Mr. COMSTICK of the Atlas & Argus.

The vast accumulations of snow during the last two months is producing the natural result of Spring freshets of unparalelled height. Already the railroads in the Mohawk, Susquehannah and Delaware valleys are so far submerged that travel is practically suspended; Albany is half drowned; the Hudson River train for New-York yesterday morning was compelled to put back and take the Harlem route; at Utica and Rochester bridges are in danger, and the cities are navigable in all directions; in Pennsalvania the damage is even greater, especially in the oil regions, where houses, tanks and machinery have been swept away. We shall hear of still greater devastation in a day or two.

We have some interesting items from Savannah. Notwithstanding the very strict orders regarding trade, Col. ALLEN was able to go on with the transfer of rice in exchange for supplies of necessaries from the North for the use of the suffering poor of the city. A committee to provide fuel had been able to sell oak wood at $10, and pine at $6 per cord. The price before SHERMAN's arrival was $20 per cord. Refugees from the interior of Georgia represent that the Union feeling is rapidly increasing, and that even large slaveholders are willing to talk about reconstruction.

Yesterday morning two coal trains on the New-Jersey Central Railroad broke through the bridge at Bloombury, falling one hundred feet into the water. Four men on the first train were killed, and the engineer of the second train was injured. The accident will interrupt the coal trade from the Lehigh region for a few days, but will not interfere with the trade from the Lackawanna region, the bridge being west of the junction of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad with the Central Railroad of New-Jersey. There will be no interruption to the passenger business.

Prof. AGASSIZ is about starting on a scientific exploring expedition to the tropical regions of South America. First to test his glacial theory of the changes in the heat of the earth; and, secondly, to collect specimens for a grand museum of comparative zoology. He will have about eight well qualified assistants. The expense is borne by Mr. NATHANIEL THORPE, who says to the professor: "Select your men, organize and go forward with the expedition, and send all the bills to me."

There is a great flood at Albany and westward along the valley of the Mohawk, caused by the melting of vast quantities of snow along the northern slope. The ice in the Hudson is blocked a little below Albany, and that city is fast assuming a submarine character. Further West, the Central Railroad track is under water, and no trains were started westward yesterday, while but one of all those due arrived at Albany. The morning train for New-Pork on the Hudson River road was compelled to return, the track being several feet undes water.

DAVID BALDWIN came to his death at Newark, N. J., on Thursday, in a very fool-hardy attempt to stop a railroad train. He was walking on the track when the 5 o'clock train approacked. BALDWIN said to his father that he would make the train "break up," and despite his expostulations remained on the track. The train struck him, hurling him some distance, fracturing his skull and producing instant death.

Intelligence has been received from San Salvador to the 16th of February. Don JUAN DELGADO, the War Minister, is dead. Honduras has sent an envoy to San Salvador. The official correspondence between San Salvador and Costa Rica, in relation to the asylum given by the former Republic to BARRIOS, is published. All the relations between the two Republics remain closed, and passengers coming from Salvador are not allowed to enter Costa Rica.

The one hundred and thirty-third anniversary of the birth of Washington was appropriately celebrated in London, at St. James Hall, which was filled by loyal Americans. The sentiments uttered by the following speakers were received with great enthusiasm: Hon. Charles Francis Adams, F. S. Morse, United States Consul; Henry Bergh, Secretary of Legation to Russia; Mr. Parker, Dr. Wilkinson, Dr. Richardson, Mr. Curtis.

It is proposed by the Navy Department to retire about one-half of our vessels, and use 25,000 of our seamen—one-half of the total number in service—for service upon land. There is no use now in having so many vessels in service, and by this measure Mr. WELLES will reduce the expenses of his department very much.

JAY COOKE, the Government Loan Agent, has arranged with WELLS, FARGO & Co., of San Francisco, to have all the express offices of that great company furnished with Seven-thirties. This will add about 300 new subscriptions offices, and will doubtless be the means of calling out vast amounts of gold now lying idle in the West.

Hon. GEO. BROWN, of the Toronto Globe, it is said, has sold 5,000 acres of the Bothwell estate, containing oil-wells, to an American Company, for the sum of $280,000. The purchasers belong to New-York, and intend to commence boring the wells immediately.

Mrs. BOWERS, the actress, has received from the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company several thousand dollars indemnity for damages to her baggage. stage costumes, &c., by a railroad accident, some time ago, whereby her trunks were tumbled into the Susquehanna River.

A large and orderly meeting of colored people was held in Savannah on the 5th instant, to listen to the reading of one of HENRY WARD BEECHER'S sermons. Lieut. A. P. KETCHUM, of Gen. SAXTON'S staff, was the reader, and Rev. Mr. TIFFANY made an address.

The brig Tropic Bird, JAMES LOCK, Master, from Matamoras for New-York, with a cargo of cotton, went ashore on Thurseay night on the beach near the lighthouse at Cape May. She was dry at half-tide. Lost her cutwater and false keel. All the crew were saved.

From the most complete returns thus far received of the town elections in New-York State the result is: Republican Supervisors, 325; Democratic, 282—a net gain to the Democrats of 9 supervisors.

The First New-Hampshire Heavy Artillery, stationed at Washington. gave 704 votes for the Union ticket, and 65 for the slavery ticket. The Now-Hampshire slavery party carried only three counties.

We have Nassau papers to the 11th inst. The news is unimportant. The Guardian calculates that a thousand seamen are thrown out of employment in Nassau alone by the capture of Wilmington and Charleston.

Mhe Monitor Catskill, which started North, from Charleston on the 8th instant, encountered a heavy gale after crossing the bar and was compelled to put back for repairs.

A boat containing ten men from the United States sloop Juniata was swamped in Charleston harbor, on the 7th inst., and nine of the men were lost.

The monitor Monadnock has made the trip from Port Royal to Boston in seventy-six honrs, towing for most of the way the steamer Mohican, which became disabled off Hatteras.

Vice-President JOHNSON is still in Washington, but will soon return to Tennessee to close up his business there as Military Governor, and to attend the inauguration of Gov. BROWNLOW.

The President, though still in feeble health, is annoyed by the pressure of importunate office-seekers.

JOHN BIGELOW, who has been Charge d'Affaires at Paris since the death of Mr. DAYTON, has been appointed to the vacant Ministry.

The Philadelphians last night established an Evening Gold Exchange, with telegraph communication direct with that in New-York.

Charleston papers say that the work of recruiting goes on finely among the colored population of that ciiy.

LOCAL NEWS.

The festivities of St. Patrick's Day passed off yesterday with entire success, and without any inauspicious circumstance. About 15,000 persons marched in procession, including the military, temperance societies and benevolent associations. The streets were very full of quiet and pleased spectators. The Mayor and Common Council reviewed the procession as it passed the City Hall. High mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral, morning services at the other Roman Catholic churches, elaborate dinners in the evening by the Knights of St. Patrick and the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, with speeches and songs, and a sacred concert at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, concluded the observances of the day. In Brookly the St. Patrick's Society gave a dinner at the Academy of Music, at which Mr. RICHARD TERNAN presided, and the St. Patrick's Social Club gave a ball at Gothic Hall. There was an independent parade in Brooklyn.

Judge BOSWORTH has accepted the position o. assistant to Col. L. C. BAKER, of the War Department Special Agency, in place of L. E. CHITTENDEN, Esq., resigned, and the agency has been removed to the second story of No. 12 Vesey-street. Col. BAKER desires to say that he will not notice anonymous communications. Four bounty-brokers were released from Fort Lafayette yesterday. The prisoners in Washington are to be tried by court-martial there—not in New-York, as certain gentlemen of the bar desired.

The thirty-fifth annual commencement of the College of Pharmacy, of New-York, took place last evening at the chapel of the New-York University. The degree of graduate of pharmacy was conferred on seven graduating students by ISAAC CODDINGTON, Vice-President of the college. Prof. FERDINAND F. MAYER addressed the graduating class, and FRANK ETHERIDGE made the valedictory address.

Mr. HERMAN FELDMAN's stock of silks, velvets, ribbons, &c., in the third story of No. 95 Reade-street, was damaged by fire to the amount of $40,000, last evening. Damage by water on the first and second floors, occupied by Messrs. A. FREUND and FREUND & BACHMAN, $5,000. Damage to the building, which belongs to the Livingston estate, $2,000.

There was a rumor in circulation yesterday that KOHNSTAMM, the convicted defrauder of the Government, had been pardoned. Neither the United States Marshal or the District-Attorney had received any official information on the subject yesterday afternoon.

An entertainment consisting of songs, recitations, &c., in aid of the sick and wounded soldiers at the New-England Relief Association Rooms, was given, last evening, by the scholars of the Sixteenth Baptist Sunday School. Quite a large audience was present, and the evening passed very agreeably.

Miss EMMA HARDINGE lectured extemporaneously at the Cooper Institute, last evening, on "Politics vs. Principles." She was attentively listened to by an audience of about a thousand persons.

Mr. PATRICK DUNN, who was mortally injured by the falling of a scaffold at a shipyard at the foot of Third-street, on Tuesday, died at No. 128 East Twenty-second-street, yesterday.

HANNAH KURTZ, a child of thirty months, was run over by a cart at the intersection of Second-avenue and Twenty-ninth-street, and killed.

Influenced by the heavy fall in Gold yesterday, prices of Domestic Produce declined materially, including Flour, which fell off 10c.@25c., and Mess Pork (at one time) $1 75@$2 ℘ bbl; Wheat, 6c.@10c.; Corn, 2c.@3c.; Rye, 5c. ℘ bushel; Cotton, 3c.@5c.; Lard, 1c.@2c.; Bacon, 1c.; Butter, 1c.@3c. ℘ ℔; Petroleum, 2c.@3c.; Whisky, 2c. ℘ gallon. At even the reduced rates very limited sales were effected. A number of failures were reported, but very indefinitely. Foreign Merchandise was extremely dull and heavy, at lower and irregular prices. The auction sales of Dry Goods were utterly destitute of spirit; Domestic Cottons were crowded off at amazingly low figures, in some instances full 25 ℘ cent. off previous rates. The Freight Market was inactive. We give in our report of the General Markets interesting comparative tables of prices of the leading kinds of Domestic Produce in this market, Dec. 31, 1864, when Gold was at 226, and yesterday, when Gold closed at 164½. These tables indicate a very acceptable reduction in the wholesale prices of the prime necessaries of life, since the opening of the current year.

There was a further average decline of ten per cent. in Gold, yesterday forenoon, but a subsequent recovery of 3@5 ℘ cent., the price standing 164½ as against 171½, at the close of business at 4 o'clock. Later sales will be found on another page at the Evening Exchange. The Railway Shares left off steady. Government Stocks were 1 ℘ cent. lower, in partial sympathy with the lower Currency Exchange on Europe, but closed in demand.

At the Evening Exchange, Gold was very active on call, and large sales were made at 167 down to 165, closing at 165½.

In Wall-street yesterday, United States 5.20 years' six ℘ cent. Gold-bearing bonds were sold as low as 107½, Gold closing at 164½. On the same day last year the 5.20s were at 110, with Gold at 160@162. Then the European demand for our National bonds was very moderate; now it is extraordinarily and increasingly active.

The New Tone of the British Press.

The London Times, and other Anti-Liberal journals of England, have exhausted deception. They are beginning to give out that the rebellion will fail. They no longer call us stark mad for persisting in a war that had no chance of success. They are getting into quite a complimentary vein, and are commending both our wisdom and our courage. They report events with some conformity to the truth; make deductions with some regard for reason. At this rate, their readers will soon be undeceived.

But undeceiving is very different work from deceiving. In the face of the developments now going on here, it will not be very difficult to clear away the delusion; the rub is, how to clear away the consequences. The whole business part of England has been made to shape its plans and calculations upon the assumption that the American war would continue indefinitely, or would end in the establishment of Confederate independence. It cannot, at this late day, adapt itself to the actual results now fast approaching, and most damaging shocks are now sure to overtake it. But far worse than that, this reign of deception in England has produced serious international complications. Had the public mind there been rightly enlightened, public opinion would have been strong enough to prevent the building or fitting out of a single rebel corsair in British waters; and would have made the blockade-running business so disreputable that no commercial house in England could have engaged in it without ruin. The immense damage which has resulted to our Government and people from this lack of restraint, will eventually cause reclamations of various kinds to be made, that the English Government will find it extremely difficult to settle. The English public already begins to be nervously apprehensive about the matter.

The guilt of the British journals does not lie in any mere opinion that this rebellion would not be subdued. That opinion has been held in good faith by many intelligent men. There have been periods in this struggle when every outward appearance, especially as viewed from a distance, favored it. For all that, a wide allowance can be made. But habitual misrepresentation cannot proceed from good faith. It can only come from a wicked animus. Herein precisely has been the crime of the London Times and its coadjutors. They have persistently, from the beginning, exaggerated rebel successes, and depreciated the national successes. They employed correspondents whose special business it was to report thus to the fullest extent possible, Whatever their correspondents fell short in, was supplied by strong assertion and specious sophistry in the editorial columns. It has been now twenty months since the rebellion received the two blows which determined its fate—Vicksburgh and Gettysburgh. From that time—with the single exception of its success at Chickamauga, and two or three minor episodes—it has been constantly growing weaker and been constantly losing ground. Yet these English papers have vied with the Richmond sheets themselves in blinding their readers to the actual situation and consequences, and with infinitely less excuse, for they had no such fate to fear.

Of course, it is easy enough to understand that this course of deception was prompted by a regard for the class interests of England. The breaking up of the great American Republic was wished for, because the belief was that it would condemn republican principles. That, perhaps, was natural enough, but it does not in the least excuse the gross misrepresentation of the actual progress of the war, or the unmerited abuse of our Government for engaging in it. Nothing can excuse systematic falsehood. But this was what TALLEYRAND called "worse than a crime—a blunder." All that perversion will surely recoil against the very interests it was designed to promote. It is human nature to resent imposition. The Confederate papers have bolstered up their cause among their own people by dint of incessant falsification. The popular mind of the Confederacy is at last apprehending this; and there are already signs of a tremendous reaction against slavery. The falsification which was kept up in England to produce sympathy with the rebellion, will result in a similar reaction. The class interests for which this has all been done, will have to pay for it dearly. An impulse will be given to the Reform cause such as it has never before experienced. We will not venture to prognosticate; but yet we will say that he would not be a mad prophet, though perhaps a bold one, who should say that the ultimate issue of all this wrong to the popular understanding, will be the overthrow of the British aristocracy as a controlling power in the State, and the establishment of the Government upon a truly popular basis. At all events, it is safe to affirm, that had truth and fairness, not to say sympathy, been observed toward us through this terrible war for our national life, by those who call themselves the conservatives of England, their cause would be stronger to-day than it now is.

The Last Rebel Shift.

The Confederacy no longer stirs apprehension; it only piques curiosity. We look at it much as sailors watch their hooked shark snapping, flapping and floundering. Fury and impotence always make an odd combination.

What just now engages our attention is the new expedient of arming the negroes. There is something very droll in the shape it finally took. The mere resorting to blacks for help to save the Confederacy, which was established for the express purpose of perpetuating white mastery, beats anything that a dying dolphin ever did in the color-changing line. But this expiring creature does something stranger than turn black. It jerks out its backbone and turns inside out. The State Rights doctrine was the very spine of the Confederacy—that upon which its whole vital system was built. The negro-arming bill extrudes States rights completely. It leaves the States no option whether to arm or not, and puts all at the supreme disposal of the Government at Richmond. Perhaps we ought to say there is an option; but it is of that very funny kind known as Hobson's choice. The Richmond Government is authorized to call on each State for its quota of three hundred thousand new troops, in addition to those subject to military service under existing laws. Inasmuch as every able-bodied white man of military age in the Confederacy is thus subject, no possibility of meeting the requisition exists but in the enlistment of black men; and the only black men are slaves. Thus, the Confederate Congress has yielded to the Richmond Government an absolute power over the fate of slavery; for it is conceded that the arming of three hundred thousand slaves would make an end of the institution. It has yielded to Richmond the whole substance, when the South bolted from Washington because of a fancied attack upon the mere shadow.

This complete introversion is very odd. We are curious to see what will come of it. It is known that the measure was most violently opposed, and that it passed the Confederate Senate but by a single vote. The Legislatures of Georgia and of North Carolina have formally protested against it, and have threatened to resist its enforcement. The variance is all the sharper because of the fact that the States whose slave property has been ruined by the war, or which have the least amount of it yet subsisting, are the States whose Representatives have most generally voted for this universal sacrifice. In the main, the Border States voted for the measure, the Gulf States against it. A very pretty quarrel is sure to result, if the Confederate concern keeps together long enough to let it develop. It will not take long. JEFF. DAVIS must have his black soldiers quickly, if at all. He will, doubtless, issue his requisitions at once. It will soon appear what States mean to comply with the requisitions, and what not. Some of them, it is certain, will refuse. Such refusal cannot be acquiesced in, for this would frustrate the whole law. No State will sacrifice its slave property unless all do. But what shall be done with those States that won't? Will JEFF. DAVIS issue a proclamation declaring their slaves free, on condition of their joining the Confederate army? Funnier yet;—will he, when such a proclamation is simply laughed at by the refractory States, march his troops down and try to enforce his proclamation at the point of the bayonet, the Yankee bayonets briskly following up his rear? A rare sight that; and it is very possible that the Confederacy may get its coup de grace in that fashion. If not in that, then pretty certainly in some other ridiculous way. A purely tragical end, which always awakens more or less of pity, would be too good for it.

THE QUIET PROGRESS OF THE DRAFT.—Those who predicted the renewal of disturbances, as a contingency of enforcing the draft in New-York, had evidently lost sight of the march of events. There is no longer what can justly be called a divided sentiment in the North as to the merits or the certain results of the rebellion. There are no longer secret cabals of foreign sympathizers with secession; intriguing and laboring to have the seat of insurrection transferred from Richmond to New-York. There is no more rebel money to be spent by rebel agents among the ignorant, debased and dissipated classes that make up our criminal population—for purposes of rioting, incendiarism and murder. The sovereignty of the law can no longer be called in question with impunity. Habits of civil obedience have been acquired by thousands who, two years ago, knew nothing whatever of the duty. And, more than all, the authorities have ceased to speculate on what might be popular with the ignorant and thoughtless in a given measure of military expediency, and have set themselves to the task of determining what is just and right.

These new conditions of our civil life have been altogether overlooked by those who prophecied bloodshed as an inevitable accompaniment of the draft. The progress of recruiting, moreover, gives good assurance that the hardships of involuntary service is not a necessary consequence of the present conscription, and that the wheel has been put in motion mainly as a practical reminder of the duty of the citizen who cannot give his personal service to the Government, to coöperate at least in the essential work of finding volunteer recruits for the army.

New-York City and its Citizens.

We published, on Thursday, one of the most shocking pieces of reading that has fallen under the eyes of any Christian community in our day, in the shape of an address recently delivered by Dr. STEPHEN SMITH, on the sanitary condition of New-York, before the joint committee of the Senate and Assembly at Albany. The picture there drawn of the condition of the poor in New-York, and verified by extracts from the reports of the medical volunteers who examined it, ward by ward, last Summer, considering that it describes a state of things existing in one of the richest cities on the globe, in a new country, amongst a people preëminent for their intelligence and religious feeling, and under "the best Government the world ever saw," is certainly somewhat disheartening for what are called "the friends of progress." What is worst about it all is not so much the amount of physical misery it reveals among the poor, though this is revolting enough, but the decay of public spirit—the growth of a shameless and cynical indifference to what concerns the public fame and credit among the well-to-do classes. There are forty-four "Health Wardens" in New-York, persons whose duty it is to inspect our streets, alleys and houses, and see that the proper sanitary precautions are taken. A large number of these are liquor dealers; all are grossly ignorant, and many disreputable in character, and it has been ascertained that they do not visit infected districts through fear of contagion. Dr. SMITH asks, and he may well ask it, "To what depth of humiliation must that community have descended, which tolerates as its sanitary officers men who are not only utterly disqualified by education, business and moral character, but who have not even the poor qualification of courage to perform their duties?"

It is this indifference of the community at large which in reality furnishes much cause for gloomy forebodings about our future. There is unquestionably something very alarming, as well as very disgusting, in the phlegmatic and unblushing way in which the decent and intelligent portion of our citizens allow their affairs to be managed by the class of persons from whom our city officials are now chosen. The morals of a population which can tolerate such "Health Wardens" as we now have, and can walk year after year through streets in the condition in which nearly all our side-streets are constantly kept, the side-walks incumbered and the gutters impeded with ashes, garbage, and mud, without indignation enough to arouse an overwhelming movement for a reform, must be undergoing steady and rapid deterioration. Property of all kinds is gradually melting away in the hands of our Common Council; hecatombs of poor are killed every year by preventable pestilence; the public conveyances are converted into filthy cattle-pens, exempt from all control and regulation; and yet it is all but impossible to secure from the intelligent classes of the community any active and hearty coöperation in the work of reform. We venture to say not ten per cent. of them give any attention to the efforts which are now being made to secure improvement in the sanitary condition of the city, or care a straw about it. The sight of a grog-shop keeper acting as "Health Warden," excites in them no feeling except one of slight amusement, and they hear of and submit to gross and palpable corruption of the City Government, the sale of nearly every office, and of every act of legislation, without other evidence of concern or indignation than a shrug of the shoulders.

We cannot help ascribing the growth and general indifference to local affairs, and the gradual rise of the very worst class into local power, to the prolonged absorption of the best minds, and highest public characters, in the Anti-Slavery struggle. The injury which that conflict has inflicted on the Northern people, by the exclusive concentration of their attention upon it, for nearly a quarter of a century, is, we believe, incalculable. One consolation is that it is now over, and we hope within the next four years to see the efforts of press, and platform, and pulpit turned to the task of stemming the tide of corruption and abuse which is flooding every department of State and Municipal Government, and checking the growing ascendency of corporations and class interests in our local politics. The negro is now a free man, and once he is provided with the protection of the laws, and the means of education, must be left to take care of himself. Our own affairs must be looked after better than they have been. Taxation must be reduced; our insane and poor taken better care of; our cities kept cleaner; our public conveyances kept in better order and rendered safer; our public offices cleared of ruffians and swindlers. There is no real difficulty in accomplishing these results. The knaves have attained power, not through the strength of their followers, but through the apathy of the majority; for the majority is still, and always will be, in feeling as well as in opinion, on the side of order and good government.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—BELLINI's opera of "I Puritani" was given here last evening to a fashionable house. The performance was pleasant, but not great.

To-day the last matinée of the season takes place, and, for the first and only time, "La Forza del Destino" will be given. In these bright Spring days it is a privilege for our country friends to visit the city, hear an opera, and return in good season.

GRAND SACRED CONCERT.—A grand sacred concert will take place to-morrow (Sunday) evening, at St. Stephen's Church, Twenty-eighth-street, in aid of a fund for enlarging that edifice. The excellent musical taste of Dr. CUMMINGS is in itself a guarantee that the programme has been selected with taste. For its interpretation the Doctor has secured the hearty and voluntary coöperation of Mr. MAX MARETZEK, who takes with him all the great artists of his troupe. There certainly has been no occasion when good church music could be heard to such advantage as on the promised occasion. A glance at the list of artists will convince our readers of this. It includes the names of Madame ZUCCHI, Miss KELLOGG, Mrs. VAN ZANDT, Mlle. MORENSI, Miss GEBELE, Signor MASSIMILIANI, Signor MACCAFERRI, Signor BELLINI, Signor SUSINI, and Signor GARRIBOLDI. Mr. ROBERT HELLER is the organist of the occasion.

SYMPHONIE SOIREE.—Mr. THEODORE THOMAS will give his fourth concert at Irving Hall to-night, assisted by Miss CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG and Miss CAROLINE SCHNEIDER. The programme is both substantial and fresh. The leading items are the Symphony in D, No. 1, by MOZART; the overture "Coriolanus," by BEETHOVEN, and the symphony No. 2, op. 96, in E flat, by ROBERT SCHUMANN.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES KEAN.—These world-renowned artists will shortly appear in this city. They commence on Monday evening, the 17th of April, at the Broadway Theatre, and will play only for two weeks.

OPENING OF THE SPRING NAVIGATION SEASON.—We congratulate eastern travelers on the announcement that the New-Haven night boat (11 o'clock P. M.,) commenced her trips for the season last night. The splendid steamer Elm City, is the pioneer of the line this year. Unless there is a speedy reform in the management of railroads generally, the steamboat routes that enter into competition with them will, unquestionably, be more largely patronized than ever. It is worthy of note that there has been no accident on this New Haven route within the memory of "the oldest inhabitant." And it is also deserving of special mention for the benefit of the people of Connecticut, that by the facilities of this night line, they may spend the entire day and evening in New-York, and reach home next morning well refreshed, and in time for business. The management here is popular and efficient.

Disaster on the New-Jersey Central Railroad—Two Coal Trains Break Through a Bridge—Four Men Killed.

EASTON, Penn., Friday, March 17.

At 3 o'clock this morning two coal trains went through the bridge at Bloomsbury. All the men on the first train, four in number, were killed. The engineer of the second train was slightly injured. The trains were running about fifteen minutes apart. All the men on the first train being killed, and the watchman being on the east side of the break, there was no one to warn the second train of the danger. The engines and cars of both trains were precipitated into the creek about 100 feet. It will take seven days to repair the bridge, during which time the company will be unable to carry any coal from the Lehigh region. The break is west of the junction of the Delaware, Lackawana and Western Railroad, and will, therefore, not interfere with the coal transportation from the Lackawana region. The passenger trains are running as usual, the passengers being carried round the break in carriages.

Progress of the New Loan—Arrangements to Supply the Pacific States.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, March 17.

JAY COOKE reports the sale of the Seven-Thirty Loan to-day at $2,564,350. The largest Western subscription was $100,000, from Pittsburgh, and the largest Eastern subscription $403,650, from New-York. There were 1,791 individual subscriptions.

JAY COOKE, the Government Loan Subscription Agent, has just completed an arrangement with WELLS, FARGO & Co., of San Francisco, which will place the seven-thirties, through the machinery of their three hundred offices, all over California, Oregon, Nevada and Colorado. Large shipments of seven-thirty notes have already been made by Mr. COOKE to San Francisco for this purpose. The immense amounts of gold now hoarded on the Pacific side, are expected to be reached and brought to the East by this measure.

PORTLAND, Me., Friday, March 17.

The brig Edith Ann, of Westport, N. S., from Porto Rico, with a cargo of molasses for Portland, went ashore this morning on East Point, three-quarters of a mile south of Wood Island. Crew saved Cargo and vessel a total loss:

FIRE IN READE-STREET.—On Thursday evening, a fire occurred in Mr. HERMAN FELLMAN's silk, velvet and ribbon store, on the third floor of No. 95 Reade-street. THE SPRING FLOODS.

Unparalleled Rise of Water in the Mohawk Valley.

Travel Suspended on the New-York Central Railroad.

Hudson River Trains Forced to Put Back.

Great Freshet in the Susquehannah River.

Immense Damage in Central Pennsylvania.

The Oil Regions Inundated and Houses and Machinery Swept Away.

ALBANY, Friday, March 17.

Large quantities of ice have lodged on the flats below the city, and the river has swollen until the docks and piers are submerged to the depth of eight or ten feet. Many of the streets in the southern part of the city are under water two or three feet. The Mohawk has also overflowed its banks, and the Central Railroad tracks at certain points are under water three or four feet. No trains have started for the West to-day, and but one has arrived. The heaviest damage is reported to have occurred at Fonda, where the bridges and telegraph wires were washed away. A few miles below the city, the Hudson River Railroad track was covered by water and ice, and this morning's train had to return, when its passengers were transferred to the Harlem Road. There are detentions on the Northern Railroad also. There is no indication yet of the water receding.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Friday, March 17.

The severe southwest gale of Thursday night has seriously obstructed travel on the Hudson River Railroad. There have been no down trains on that road to-day. Several hundred feet of the track between Stuyvesant to Albany is submerged, and the telegraph poles in that locality are washed away. The Hudson yesterday rose several feet above tide-water mark.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Friday, March 17.

The 4:30 P. M. train, from Albany, came through to-night about one hour behind time. Travel on this route will be resumed to-morrow.

UTICA, N. Y., Friday, March 17.

The water in the vicinity is three feet higher than ever before. The gas works is effectually stopped. The fires were put out, and no gas can be furnished for days to come. The iron bridge across the river, built by the U. & B. R. R. Co., was carried away about 1 o'clock. Little Falls is the farthest point reached to-day. There are about two miles of telegraph poles and wire down this side of Little Falls. The extent of the damage east of that place is unknown.

ROCHESTER, Friday, March 17.

There is the greatest flood in Rochester and vicinity ever known. The water in the river fills all the arches under the aqueduct, and overflows the railroad bridge. It is several feet deep, and blows across Buffalo-street, near the Arcade, filling all the cellars, and covering the ground floor of many of the principal stores. No trains left East on the Central or Genesee Valley Railroad since yesterday.

At the rock the water is still rising. The railroad bridge has been and now is in danger; but unless the water rises more it will be safe.

To-day the body of an unknown woman was found floating on Excaange-street, having been washed down the river.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, March 17.

The Bulletin says:

"The storm of last night was very destructive in the interior of the State.

We hear that the Susquehannah River and all its tributaries are extraordinarily high, and below Middletown the railroad is washed away.

In the oil regions there has also been great floods. Oil City has been submerged, and great quantities of oil in barrels swept away."

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, March 17.

A special dispatch to the Press from Harrisburgh, says:

"The Susquehannah River is now the scene of a great and destructive freshet. Three bridges up the stream are reported to have been carried away, and to be coming down this way. A number of families who reside on the islands in front of this city have been forced to leave their homes.

The water is so deep in the river that the Harrisburgh Waterworks cannot use the tanks fronting on the river. The damage to property is very great. No lives have been lost as far as is known. This is the greatest rise in the river since 1847. The water was beating against the timber of Cumberland Valley Railroad bridge which is usually fifteen feet above the level of the river. Various household effects and even houses, have been floating down the stream all day.

FRANKLIN, Penn., Friday, March 17.

We are having the greatest flood ever known in this region. The bridge at Oil City and the French Creek bridge at Franklin are swept away. Miles of the railroad track are gone, and the telegraph lines on Oil Creek are washed away. Houses, tanks and barrels, full and empty, cover the river. The loss is estimated by the million. The river is still rising.

EASTON, Penn., Friday, March 17.

The Delaware River is over 26 feet above low-water mark, and still rising. But little damage has been done above this point as yet. There is about 22 feet rise in the Lehigh River. It is reported that the canals have been materially damaged, but we have no reliable facts as yet.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 17.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Gen. SPINNER reports that up to-day the whole number of National banks authorized and having procured the necessary papers, are nine hundred and nine. The conversions of State banks has just commenced, but they are coming in very rapidly.

REBEL DESERTERS GOING TO WORK.

A large number of rebel deserters arrived here to-day. An unusual large number have come into our lines at all points within the last four days. The necessary steps have been taken by some of the agents of the different States here to induce the deserters to go at once to the Central States and hire out as field-hands, their labor being greatly needed and liberal wages offered. Many of them have already expressed a willingness to accede to this proposition.

SOLICITOR WHITING.

Mr. WHITING, Solicitor of the War Department, who has been absent from his office for several weeks, in consequence of severe indisposition, returned this morning, very much improved, and will resume his duties to-morrow.

BLOCKADE OF THE REBEL RAM STONEWALL.

The Government has received information from Madrid to-day that the Sacramento has reached Ferroll, Spain, and joined the Niagara in watching the rebel ram Stonewall. This ensures the blockade of this redoubtable rebel cruiser, which the Niagara alone might not have been a match for.

THE FRENCH MISSION FILLED.

JOHN BIGELOW, Esq., late Consul at Paris, and now Charge D'Affaires ad interim, was to-day nominated by the President as Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary to the French Court, to succeed the late Mr. DAYTON. This nomination is highly commended in all quarters.

CONSUL APPOINTED.

Hon. AMBROSE W. CLARK, late Representative in Congress from the Twentieth district of New-York, has been appointed Consul to Valparaiso, Chili. Mr. CLARK, like Mr. BIGELOW, is an editor of much experience and high standing, and was chairman on the committee on printing in the late Congress.

THE PRESIDENT'S HEALTH.

Mr. LINCOLN's health is improving under the influence of an enforced quiet by the rigid shutting out of all visitors, no matter under what pretence they demand an interview. It is truly lamentable to see the pertinacity with which many of these office-seeking cormorants literally demand the President's personal attention to their claims. the consideration of overtaxed energies and possible failing health, seems never to be thought of by them, and the President, contrary to his amiable character and desires, is obliged to enforce rules in regard to his time and business which he would be delighted to have people respect through their own sense of the delicacy of his position, and the vast amount of important public business constantly passing before him through the regular channels.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 17.

THE MINISTER TO FRANCE.

The President has appointed JOHN BIGELOW, our present Chargé d' Affaires at Paris, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at that court.

LORD LYONS.

The departure of Lord LYONS from the United States in December last, was on a leave of absence, he having been a great sufferer from neuralgia, and believing a change of climate would restore his health.

MR. JOHNSON'S SPEECH.

The address of Vice-President JOHNSON, delivered on the 4th of March, appears in the Globe of to-day.

FLAG PRESENTATION—SPEECH BY PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

A rebel flag captured at Andersen by the One Hundred and Fortieth Indiana Volunteers was presented to-day to Gov. MORTON, in front of the National Hotel. A large crowd was in attendance. Gov. MORTON made a brief speech, in which he congratulated his auditors on the speedy end of the rebellion, and concluded by introducing President LINCOLN, whose purity and patriotism were confessed, he said, by all, even among the most violent agitators. [Applause.] His administration would be recognized as the most important epoch of history. It had struck the death blow to slavery, [applause,] and built up the Republic with a power it never before possessed. If he had done nothing more than put his name to the Emancipation Proclamation, that alone would would have made his name immortal. [Applause.]

FELLOW-CITIZENS: It will be but a very few words that I shall undertake to say. I was born in Kentucky, raised in Indiana and lived in Illinois, [laughter,] and now I am here, where it is my business to care equally for the good people of all the States. I am glad to see an Indiana regiment on this day able to present the captured flag to the Governor of Indiana. [Applause.] I am not disposed in saying this to make a distinction between the States, for all have done equally well. [Applause.] There are but few views or aspects of this great war upon which I have not said or written something whereby my own opinions might be known. But there is one—the recent attempt of our erring brethren, as they are sometimes called, [laughter,] to employ the negro to fight for them. I have neither written nor made a speech on that subject, because that was their business, not mine; and if I had a wish upon the subject, I had not the power to introduce it or make it effective. The great question with them was whether the negro being put into the army will fight for them. I do not know, and therefore cannot decide. [Laughter.] They ought to know better than me. I have, in my lifetime, heard many arguments why the negroes ought to be slaves; but if they fight for those who would keep them in slavery it will be a better argument than any I have yet heard. [Laughter and applause.] He who will fight for that ought to be a slave. [Applause.] They have concluded at last to take one out of four of the slaves, and put them in the army; and that one out of the four who will fight to keep the others in slavery ought to be a slave himself, unless he is killed in a fight. [Applause.] While I have often said that all men ought to be free, yet would I allow those colored persons to be slaves who want to be; and next to them those white people who argue in favor of making other people slaves. [Applause.] I am in favor of giving an appointment to such white men to try it on for these slaves. [Applause.] I will say one thing in regard to the negroes being employed to fight for them. I do know he cannot fight and stay at home and make bread too. [Laughter and applause.] And as one is about as important as the other to them, I don't care which they do. [Renewed applause.] I am rather in favor of having them try them as soldiers. [Applause.] They lack one vote of doing that, and I wish I could send my vote over the river, so that I might cast it in favor of allowing the negro to fight. [Applause.] But they cannot fight and work both. We must now see the bottom of tee enemy's resources. They will stand out as long as they can, and if the negro will fight for them, they must allow him to fight. They have drawn upon their last branch of resources—[applause]—and we can now see the bottom. [Applause.] I am glad to see the end so near at hand. [Applause.] I have said now more than I intended, and will therefore bid you Good bye.

The President then retired, while the crowd below saluted him with loud and hearty cheers, and the band played a lively tune.

Gov. MORTON then stepped forward and remarked that they had now seen the rebel flag, and he proposed that each one in favor of the perpetuity of this great Union take off his hat and give three cheers for the Union flag. The request was responded to with hearty good will. Three hearty cheers were then given for President LINCOLN and three more for Gov. MORTON, after which the band struck up "Yankee Doodle."

FLORIDA.

Attack upon Fort Myers—Repulse of the Rebels.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Monday, Feb. 20.

The 20th of February was a memorable one in the annals of Fort Myers, Florida. On that day, a force of the enemy, numbering about five hundred men, with two pieces of cannon, appeared before our work and demanded a surrender in twenty minutes, the demand being made in consideration of the women and children at the post, families of soldiers of the Second Florida Cavalry, and Union refugees. The demand, it is needless to say, was emphatically declined.

The post at the time was garrisoned by Companies J and D, Second United States Colored Infantry, Capts. J. F. BARTHOLF and W. J. CHILDS, and A and B, Second Florida Cavalry, Lieuts. STEPHENS and MCCULLOUGH, the two latter Companies being recruited from Union refugees and rebel deserters.

Owing to the intended evacuation of the post, a large number of the garrison was absent, conveying property to the steamers for transportation, and owing to deficiency of arms, the effective force at the post, amounting to but little over 250 men, with two pieces of cannon. In addition, ammunition, both small and large was scarce, there being but about thirty rounds per man.

Our picket of four men of the Second Florida Cavalry, stationed about two miles distant, on the main road, was surprised and captured, and the enemy advanced boldly to within a quarter of a mile of our works, where they halted and displayed a flag of truce, which was immediately answered by Capt. BARTHOLF's Second United States Colored Infantry. Had they, instead of halting, dashed immediately on the post, it, its garrison and stores must inevitably have been captured, as we were entirely unaware of their approach until the flag was displayed. But they hoped to gain a bloodless victory, and had been deceived by reports as to the intended reduction of the force at the post, and which really was about to take place.

Two days later they would have found but half the force to oppose them, and a different tale might have been told.

While the flag of truce was displayed, the enemy was engaged in gathering our men, horses and cattle, outside the post, and immediately on our answer being returned, opened fire upon us, to which we replied with such effect, that they were frequently compelled to change the position of their battery. Our pieces were admirably served by Capt. DAWEY, Second U. S. Colored Infantry, who happened at the post on a visit.

The firing was kept up throughout the day, and everything was got in readiness to repel an assault. Our skirmishers kept up a constant fusilade, and inflicted severe damage upon the enemy. The conduct of all concerned was excellent. The colored soldiers served the artillery, and were in the thickest of the fight. Their impetuosity could hardly be restrained; they seemed totally unconscious of danger, or regardless of it, and their constant cry was to "get at them," but, in consequence of the superior force of the enemy, and the defective arms in the hands of the colored troops, the commanding officer, Capt. JAMES A. DOYLE, thought it best to act entirely on the defensive. The refugee soldiers, under the command of Capt. GREENE, also established their reputation for loyalty and efficiency. After a bombardment of twelve hours, the enemy retired, with a loss variously estimated at from twenty to forty men and several horses. Our loss was four men of the Second U. S. C. I., and eight of the Second Florida Cavalry, captured, and about ten horses.

And thus ended the attack on Fort Myers, Fla., to make which the enemy had performed a march of about 200 miles, through a dense wilderness, entirely unpeopled except by the red men.

BILLS PASSED.

The New-York and Brooklyn Passenger and Baggage Bill.

The bill providing compensation to the members of the New-York Common Council came up for a third reading.

Mr. VAN BUREN moved to recommit the bill, which motion was carried.

The Manhattan Life Insurance Company's Building.

This building, recently completed, is one of the handsomest in the city. It is of white marble, in the Italian style, and was erected at an expense of one hundred thousand dollars. Situated in Broadway, between Liberty-street and Maiden-lane, it presents an imposing elevation with its fluted Corinthian pilasters and columns, and its semi-circular headed openings and pediments.

The first story is occupied by leading Insurance Companies, on either side of the entrance, and the grand hall of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company at its termination. This hall is 60 feet deep, 40 feet wide and 26 feet in height, enriched by pilasters, pedestals and entablature of the Corinthian order, surmounted by a coved ceiling, handsomely ornamented and lighted by a dome 20 feet in diameter.

The floor is of marquetry of rich design, pleasingly inlaid with maple, walnut and other hard woods.

At the end of the apartment is a raised dais, surrounded by an ornamental inclosure, for the president, commanding the entire office. On the right of the entrance is the general agent's compartment appropriately fitted. The fittings generally are of carved walnut; they include some three hundred drawers, and cost about five thousand dollars.

The physician's room is in close proximity to the president.

The building is of an L form on plan, and has a front on Liberty-street. Here is the directors' room, 40 feet by 18, tastily finished, opening into the large hall. The upper part of the edifice is occupied by insurance, mining and other offices, approached by an elliptical staircase. The lower story is of iron, with Doric columns, and other prominent insurance companies have their offices on either side. The erection is 140 feet deep and 62 feet high, with sub-cellars to the depth of 18 feet. Mr. J. BUTLER SNOOK, of Chambers-street, is the architect.

The furniture for the directors' room is exceedingly ornate; it was prepared expressly, and is inscribed with the monogram of the company.—Commercial Advertiser.

REV. DR. JRVINE, recently from Canada, where he obtained great celebrity, as a popular preacher, will officiate at Westminster Church, West Twenty-second-street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, on Sunday, at 10½ in the morning, and 3½ in the afternoon.

To the Public.

A CARD FROM THE FIRST NATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY.

People are hereby cautioned not to confound a concern lately set on foot in this city, under the name of the FIRST NATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY, with the company for which the undersigned are officers, and whose office is at No. 100 BROADWAY. It is believed that the great success with which the original and genuine company met, and the great value of their properties, have induced designing persons to attempt a fraud upon the public by the use of their name.

This belief seems fully justified by the fact that this last concern have many names attached to their prospectus and advertisements which cannot be found in the Directory, and which are made to resemble prominent names in the community, and because they have fraudulently copied or forged editorial notices, and pretend they were designed for them, and various other circumstances, particulars of which will be given on application to this office.

C. H. APPLEGATE,
President of First National Petroleum Co.,

A Neglected Cold may cause months of suffering, and often ends at last in Consumption, Bronchitis, or other Pulmonary Affection. When neglect is attended by results so dangerous, what can justify the careless indifference of "waiting for a cold to get well itself?" If those who are now troubled with Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, &c., would surely avoid the dreadful sufferings of the consumptive, let them take at once DR. D. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT, a remedy whose efficacy has been established thirty years. Sold everywhere.

Coughs.—The administration of medicinal preparations in the form of a lozenger, is of all modes the most eligible and convenient, more especially as regards a COUGH REMEDY. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" or Cough Lozengers allay irritation, which induces coughing, giving instant relief in Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Influenza, and Consumptive and Asthmatic complaints.

HEARING RESTORED BY ONE APPLICATION OF DR. VON EISENBERG'S ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON.

NEW-YORK, March 10.

I have been induced, by the great number of certificates continually published in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's skill, to apply to him for advice concerning my deafness of many years' standing. I placed myself under his care, and to my utmost delight he made me hear perfectly well by a single painless application of Dr. Von Eisenberg's "Æsthetico-Neuralgicon." I have great pleasure in being able to state that his skill in restoring hearing surpasses anything I ever saw or heard of. His attention to the patient is highly commendable.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

LIBRARY EDITION OF THACKERAY'S WORKS.

VANITY FAIR;

A Novel without a Hero. By WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY. With Illustrations by the Author, and a Portrait on Steel, engraved by Halpin after Lawrence's Picture. A new and elegant Library Edition, in Three Volumes, Post 8vo, on Toned Paper. Cloth, $7 50.

From the EASY CHAIR, Harper's Magazine.

At last the Harpers have issued Thackeray's "Vanity Fair" in the most exquisite and convenient form. It is a beautiful book, which Thackeray himself would have smiled to see, and which every lover of Thackeray will be glad to own. The refined and legible text, and all the original illustrations carefully reproduced, are fitly preceded by the head engraved from Lawrence's portrait and by the fac-simile of the author's clear autograph upon the cover. There has hitherto been no accessible satisfactory edition of this most famous and characteristic of modern novels for permanent preservation in the library; but this satisfies all the conditions.

Of the work itself, as of the genius of its author, Miss Brontë spoke so truly that little is left to add. * * * As the most faithful pictures of the society of his time—as the most exquisitely unexaggerated delineations of individual character—as masterly monuments of a noble English style, simple, sinewy, and racy; and for their infinitely tender humanity, geniality, wisdom, and wit, the novels of Thackeray have already become part of our enduring literature; and whoever heard that rich, manly voice, or saw that towering burly figure, or looked upon that honest face, has seen and heard one of the great masters of English fiction.

TOO STRANGE NOT TO BE TRUE.
A TALE
By LADY GEORGIANA FULLERTON.
Authoress of "Ellen Middleton," "Lady Bird," etc.
WITH ILLUSTRATIONS.
1 Vol. 8vo., Paper Cover, $1 50; Cloth, $2.

"Truth and fiction are closely blended in this Tale, and in the Appendix will be found the material from whence some of its incidents have been drawn, as also the narrative which has furnished its groundwork. Those who are glad to turn away for a while from the beaten roads of history, and to tread the by-ways of romance, who love truth which resembles fiction, and fiction which follows closely in the footsteps of truth, may, perhaps, find some little interest in this story of the last century."

CONSUMERS' BENEFIT COAL COMPANY.

The undersigned, Trustees of the Consumers' Benefit Coal Company, have succeeded in making arrangements to procure the fee of the Audenreid Colliery, on such terms as fully to compensate for the want of the amount of transportation expected for the present year. This will enable the company to reduce the number of shares so as to insure the delivery of coal to shareholders, as originally contemplated, believing that so beneficial and profitable an enterprise should not be abandoned, and being urged thereto by many shareholders, propose to complete the organization in a modified form as follows:

The capital stock to be 50,000 shares, but 30,000 of which will be sold at present, and the balance when the increased transportation facilities will enable the company to deliver for each share one ton per year, at cost of mining and transportation, (which at present is about $2,) and a proportion to sell at market prices, as promised in former statements.

The amount of coal that can now be brought to market from these mines will enable the company to keep their promises in respect to delivery of coal for the number of shares that will be sold, and the additional means in progress of construction, to be completed within the year, will double the amount.

If the present subscribers will retain their shares, the company will be able to take immediate possession of the mines, and deliver coal to subscribers forthwith.

The enterprise is now more confidently recommended than as first proposed.

SCHUYLKILL COAL.

NOTICE.—The undersigned hereby respectfully notify their friends and the public that the leases from the New-York and Schuylkill Coal Company, (formerly the Forest Improvement Company,) under which they have heretofore operated various collieries in Schuylkill County, Penn., having severally expired by limitation of the same, and the Company having determined to engage in mining and selling coal, the business hereafter will be conducted by said Company.

THREE REMARKABLE BOOKS.

I.

CHRONICLES OF THE SCHONBERG-COTTA FAMILY.

The design of this work is to reproduce in life-like form the events and characters of the Great Reformation. This has been done with marvelous reality and power. It is truly a wonderful book. Its popularity has hardly been equaled by anything in our current literature, and has placed its "Unknown Author" among the first of living writers.

"The various incidents in the life of Luther are portrayed with a graphic beauty and truthfulness rarely equaled."—Albany Times.

"The family history which it contains, if read by itself, would be regarded as one of the most successful portraitures of domestic life that has ever been drawn."—New-York Observer.

II.

THE EARLY DAWN,

or Sketches of Christain life in England in the olden time. By the author of "The Cotta Family," with introduction by Prof. H. B. Smith, D. D.

"The various facts and legends of early Christianity in England are told in this book in a style of romantic fascination. It is an unusually entertaining and readable work."—New-York Evening Post.

III.

Just published by arrangement with the author.

DIARY OF MRS. KITTY TREVYLYAN,

a story of the times of Whitefield and the Wesleys. By the author of "The Schonberg-Cotta Family," with a preface by the author of our edition.

One volume, 12mo, 436 pp.

"Notwithstanding the immense popularity of the Schonberg-Cotta Chronicles, we should not be surprised if Mrs. Kitty Trevylyan completely rivals them in popular favor."—New-York Times.

"We think this decidedly the author's best work, better even than the 'Cotta Family.' It sparkles on almost every page with gems of thought, while the narrative is one of absorbing interest."—S. S. Times.

"The beauty of the 'Diary' is its homelike simplicity, its delicate portraits, and powerful, because so perfectly natural, sketches of life and manners."—Hartford Post.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 62 Franklin-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 61 Franklin-st. Call, send, or write.

CAUTION.—CHLORODYNE—IN CHANCERY.—It was clearly proved before Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood, by affidavits from eminent hospital physicians in London, that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—See Times, Jan. 12, 1864. The public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, which is affirmed by medical testimonials to be the most efficacious medicine ever discovered for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Spasms, Rheumatism, &c. No home should be without it. J. T. DAVENPORT, No. 33 Great Russell-st., London, sole manufacturer. Observe particularly, none genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Stamp. Agent, New-York, Mr. JAMES ASPINWALL, William-st.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D., No. 61 Franklin-st., between Broadway and Elm-st., New-York.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL CONSULTATIONS.—Dr. R. COBBETT can be consulted with the most honorable confidence on private diseases at his conveniently-arranged suite of offices, No. 20 Centre-st., between Chambers and Reade sts., having a private entrance at No. 6 City Hall-place. From Dr. C. being one of the oldest, and probably the only qualified physician and surgeon in this City who makes diseases of the genitourinary organs a specialty, he is thus enabled to guarantee speedy and permanent cures, or make no charge. Strictures of the urethra, seminal weakness nervous and general debility treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—See Dr. C.'s diplomas, in his office, as member of the New-York University Medical College, and College of Surgeons, London. Office hours, 9 A. M. to 8½ P. M.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

HONORS TO ERIN'S PATRON SAINT.

A Splendid Procession Five Miles in Length.

The Friendly Sons and Knights of St. Patrick—Dinners at Delmonico's and the Metropolitan Hotel.

The military companies and benevolent and temperance associations mustered early yesterday forenoon, and by 10 o'clock many of them were on their way to their posts. The procession of the day was intended to move from the corner of East Broadway and Grand-street before 12 o'clock, but it was about 1½ o'clock before the start was actually made.

It is expected that St. Patrick's Day will be stormy; but the Saint contrived to have the rain concluded very early, and the remainder of the day was sunshiny, breezy and bracing.

The number of persons in the procession was variously estimated from 10,000 to 20,000, and was, probably, not far from 15,000. When all in motion, its length was between five and six miles, and it was about two hours passing any given point.

As the long pageant passed across the City Hall Park, Mayor GUNTHER and the Common Council, standing in state upon the verge of the stone platform before the hall, reviewed it. As part of the history of the day, we insert here the Mayor's noticeably worded letter, inviting the Common Council to take part in the review:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, March 17, 1865.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: I respectfully invite the members of your Honorable Body to join me in receiving the procession of to-day as it passes in review in front of the City Hall, and, on behalf of the municipal authorities, to testify our sympathy with an occasion which calls forth many of our fellow-citizens on a festival of peace.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

Bearing a long staff having a gilt blossom at top, which made him look almost as splendid as a Drum Major, and having on either hand a platoon of his trusty Councilmen, "few but undismayed," also decorated with similar, but shorter staves, and with a large turf of shamrock upon his broad chest, His Honor, from time to time, saluted, with Teutonic bonhommie, the banners and the representatives of the Green Isle.

During the review, a salute was fired in the Park by Capt. O'GRADY, of the Fourth Artillery.

Crossing the Park, the procession moved up Broadway. The Broadway Squad of Police led; the military display followed, consisting of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, the First Cavalry, and the Ninety-ninth and Ninety-Fifth Regiments. The civic part of the procession succeeded, in the following order:

Ancient Order of Hibernians of New-York. Thomas Kearns and James Reilly, Marshals.

The following gentlemen acted as officers of the day:

John Tucker, Grand Marshal.
Aids—Patrick McGuinn, Wm. Atkinson.
Special Aids—Hugh Murray, Denis Keenan, Michael Gillen, John J. Therry, Peter Ledwith, Michael Dougherty, Cornelius Healy, John McCluskey, Patrick Hagerty, Thomas Connor, Hugh Monaghan, Thomas McGuire.

From Broadway the route pursued was by Fourteenth-street, Seventh-avenue, Thirty-fourth-street, Second-avenue, Twenty-third-street, First-avenue and Eighth-street, to the place of disbanding at Cooper Institute. When stretching at length along Broadway, the picture was both interesting in itself, and as contrasted with the heterogeneous and almost fantastic succession of moving pictures which constituted the procession of ten days ago, there was now one long column of black-coated and black-hatted men, the monotony of the sable column relieved at intervals by the gorgeous banners, and seven times agreeably diversified by the light-green jackets and youthful faces of several companies of boys.

A closer observation of the line of march showed a quantity of ornamentation altogether surprising as contrasted with the grave and serious general effect. A very large majority of the procession was adorned with broad, gold fringed, green scarfs, on each of which were displayed from two to ten sparkling gilt emblems of stars, eagles, shamrock, harps, &c. Rosettes, badges and medals gleamed and flaunted on almost every breast; bouquets abounded; the officers of the various societies carried gigantic gilt pens, keys, gavels or batons, be-ribboned and be-flowered. The marshals were tipt with old-fashioned, fore-and-aft chapeaux. Here and there, among all this symbolic splendor, could be discerned the unobtrusive, every-day umbrella, providently borne by some devout believer in traditional pluviosities. And ever and anon the time-honored motto of "Erin-Go-Bragh" stood prominently forth among the devices of the scene.

The march was enlivened by bands of music and by several sets of Irish pipes, not to mention the painted harps conspicuous on many a banner and badge. Patriotic associations apart, and on merely musical grounds, it would have been better to have real harps and painted pipes. Besides other common marching music, the inspiring strains of "Saint Patrick's Day in the Morning," "Savourneen Deelish," "Rory O'More," "The Bowld Sojer Boy," were heard.

The streets on the route of the procession were filled with a great crowd, and female Ireland was abroad in great numbers, gala dresses and many smiles. Very remarkable good order prevailed during the day, and intoxication and tumult were almost entirely unknown.

High Mass was celebrated as part of the day's ceremonial, by Archbishop MCCLOSKEY, at St. Patrick's Cathedral. There was a eulogy on St. Patrick, and services at all the Roman Catholic churches.

Those societies, &c., who came from Brooklyn to join the procession here, had had a very good celebration of their own, by the way, at home, before they came over the river.

Dinner of the Friendly Sons—Their Eighty-first Anniversary—Speeches, Toasts, Sentiments, &c.

The Friendly Sons were not untrue to their traditions—though it must be allowed that many of those whose names are inseparably connected with the history of their organization, and who have, in latter times, been the faciles principes at the annual banquet, have taken to "fresh fields and pastures new." Yet the society was not by any means lacking in talent at their dinner at Delmonico's last night. The talent that constitutes not alone the pride, but the resource of Celtic fellow-citizens, was well represented by such men as Hon. C. P. Daly, Hon. John R. Brady, Hon. Edmund Hearne, Hon. Henry Alker—(all Judges)—Francis Byrne, Esq., John B. Fogarty, Esq., Wm. C. Traphagen, Esq., Joseph Choate, Esq., Wm. H. Ryan, Esq.—(all lawyers)—P. Mulvihill, John W. Webber, Wm. Watson, Eugene Kelly, Alexander Stuart, Joseph Stuart, Chas. Wilman, Wm. Hoguet, Wm. Whiteside, J. Rice, Arthur O'Donnell, Wm. Dempster—all civilians of good standing and repute)—and, as a representative of the fighting element, Gen. Van Vliet.

The table was most lavishly set, the Friday in Lent notwithstanding. To speak of the wines and the delicacies would be only to go over a thrice-told tale. People do not, generally speaking, spend, even for nationality's sake, $17 on a dinner, without a very tangible quid pro quo.

The music, under the leadership of one of the DODWORTHS, was admirable.

The new President, Mr. RICHARD BELL, who has been so long and so efficient a member of "The Sons," called the assemblage to order at the appropriate time, and said,

MR. BELL'S SPEECH.

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN: I shall be as frank with you as the pressure of the times will permit. I am not here to make a speech. I am here, rather, to make an apology (if apology be needed) for not making a speech. A "speech" implies, in the ordinary acceptation of the term, a saying of something that regards other people's affairs, as well as your own. Now, if I had entertained serious intentions of delivering an elaborate address in response to the sentiment with which you have so kindly associated my name, I might have spoken to you of things not generally known; perhaps, concerning the origin of our race—its prowess—its wonderful capacity for reaching high altitudes in the realms of science, of literature and of art. But I prefer, on this occasion, to leave the past to itself, and talk of Irishmen as we find them to-day. In looking at our procession to-day, I felt a glow of pride, not because of the simple grandeur of the display, but because of the sentiment it embodied. The long array of orderly, sober, well-behaved and fine-looking men it presented has never been excelled in this city. It was a noble display. The old sod itself was never trod, on any occasion, by such a concourse of men—not simply citizens, but men, and not hats, as Mr. RUSSELL saw them; and as for the brains under the hats and the muscles within the coats, I defy the world to equal them! But, say some gentlemen, disposed to be censorious, "These Irish are so clannish, so factious." Admitted. Men may be allowed to have their likings, and "blood is thicker than water," no matter where or among whom you go. It has also been said of them, in a disparaging sort of way, that they are fractious. Grant that, also. They have maintained a contest against subjugation for over eight hundred years or more in their own land, and we cannot well find fault with them, even as conscript fathers, for perpetuating their democratic proclivities on this "fresh and fair land."

Ah, but they are superstitious! I can, in reply, safely aver that there is not a Mormon house of worship nor a Spiritualistic circle in all Ireland. It is true, they have a faith of which the world has reason to know something; but fighting, rollicking, jolly as Paddy is, his creed, through all times and places, has ever taught him to say—and, with this hearty prayer I close—"Peace on earth and good will to men." [Great applause.]

The toast of "The United States" was responded to by Mr. CLEVELAND, of Connecticut. Mr. CLEVELAND failed to satisfy his audience, and some disturbance followed, which, though not very emphatic, was ostentatious enough to be, for a time, unpleasant.

The speech of Gen. VAN VLIET, in response to the toast of the Army and Navy, elicited much applause. He paid a high tribute of praise to the Irishman as a gallant soldier and loyal citizen—and, en passant, passed a high encomium on MCCLELLAN and Secretary STANTON.

After him, Mr. CHOATE, on behalf of the New-England Society, Judge BRADY, Judge HEARNE, Judge ALKER, Judge MCCUNN and others, made brief speeches.

Among the communications received were the following:

LETTER FROM JOHN VAN BUREN, ESQ.

Much to my regret, I find I shall not be able to attend your festival this evening. It would have given me great pleasure to be present on an occasion of so much interest to meet friends whom I esteem. Permit me to offer now the subjoined sentiment, and to express the hope that the "Friendly Sons" will have, as they deserve, a first-rate, good time. Truly yours,

J. VAN BUREN,

NEW-YORK, March 17, 1865.

Prince JOHN sent in the following sentiment:

"Freedom of Religious Faith. A vital principle of our Republic, to be maintained at all hazards." [Applause.]

NEWS FROM THE IRISH IN FRONT.

IRISH BRIGADE BEFORE PETERSBURGH, March 17.

Richard Bell, President Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Delmonico's Hotel, New-York:

The officers of the Irish Brigade greet the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. Whilst the Friendly Sons are celebrating St. Patrick's Day in New-York, the officers of the Irish Brigade are celebrating the day in camp and one mile in front of the enemy, by a steeple-chase in the good old Irish style, and ever ready to offer up their lives for the great republic. The Stars and Stripes: The most glorious and free flag that floats on the face of the earth.

ROBERT NUGENT,
Colonel Commanding.

Banquet of the Knights of St. Patrick.

Last evening the Knights of St. Patrick gave a grand banquet at the Metropolitan Hotel. The large hall was tastefully decorated; landscapes of Irish scenery graced the panels, and were displayed amid a labyrinth of festoons formed of the Stars and Stripes and Irish flags.

The officers of the society and distinguished guests sat at a semi-circular table at the head of the room, on which were several fine ornamental confections. On the centre of the table was the harp of Erin; on the right St. Patrick, with his crozier; and on the left a Monument of Washington. In the rear of the table was a large and striking painting, which the brilliant gas-jets rendered the most prominent object in the hall. It was a representation of a grand festive scene, embracing a curious panorama of civic groupings, in grotesque attire, the aggregate bent on revelry and frolic. It was the scene of the celebrated "Donnybrook Fair," which was held in former times on Madden's Farm, about two-and-a-half miles from the centre of the Irish metropolis.

The officers of the society are as follows: President, W. R. ROBERTS; Vice-Presidents, J. H. Hummett, P. J. Wall and Judge Dennis Quinn; Secretary, Thomas B. Connery; Corresponding Secretary, Hugh Duffy.

Among the invited guests were Rev. Mr. Meeher, Mayor Gunther, Col. John O'Mahony, Brig.-Gen. Sweeny, Dr. G. Bedford.

The President, W. R. ROBERTS, addressed the audience substantially as follows:

Honored Guests and Brother Knights of St. Patrick—Another anniversary of our society beholds us assembled around the festive board, interchanging those social and friendly offices, for which, on occasions of this kind, our countrymen are proverbial; partaking of the generous and princely hospitality of our worthy hosts, the LELANDS; drowning the shamrock—the innocent emblem of our native land—in flowing goblets of wine, or in more appropriate bumpers of wit-inspiring "potteen," and congratulating each brother Knight and brother Celt on the past career and brilliant future in store for our young, vigorous and thoroughly national society, and the position it occupies in the estimation of our countrymen in America,—for its reputation is not confined to New-York,—no, nor to this continent; a wide and thorough knowledge of its character and spirit has long since crossed the Atlantic; and it is to-day, with our countrymen at home and abroad, the recognized exponent of Irish-American sentiments and principles. [Loud cheers.] That it will continue to advance to higher spheres of patriotism and public esteem, I feel convinced, from the character and ability of its members and the desire exhibited by so many of our countrymen to become Knights of our order, giving rise to fears in the minds of some that it will become too large and wieldy. I, however, do not share in these fears. Let them come; if good men and true, the more the better. And if we cannot find a hall large enough to dine them on each recurring anniversary, we will erect one capable of seating every loyal son and lover of old Ireland, though we had to purchase the Central Park for a site [tremendous applause]; so that, when the time arrives, you have only to let me know, and I will open negotiations at once for its purchase. Of the past, brother Knights, we are proud; of the future we are sanguine; and, for the present, we have cause for offering up, from the depths of our hearts, our gratitude to God, that He has permitted us to meet once more, in health and honor, to renew the social enjoyments of past festivities, and pledge, as our fathers pledged, and as, I trust, our children will, unalterable love and reverence for the land whose national holiday we celebrate to-day, with the same freshness of heart and pride of country as when first we learned to lisp, in accents of joy and veneration, the name which, on this day, is remembered and honored wherever the foot of an Irishman wanders. [Renewed cheers.] How ennobling the time-honored custom that, like a magnet attracts the exiled children of a distant, but not forgotten mother, to offer on the altars of our manhood, the patriotism that we laid on the shrines of our youth; differing only in this, that time and distance has but increased our love for her, and our pride in her virtues, traditions, aye, even in her sufferings though much we deplore their existence, and condemn the cause, still they are the fires that purify the patriotism of her sons, illuminate the virtues, that would otherwise remain in darkness or concealed, and prove the true metal of a people, who, though submitting to a yoke they have endeavored to break, refuse, with few exceptions to become the sycophants and admirers of a nation that degraded and enslaved their country, and pity—to use no harsher name—those of their own race who recreant to every honorable principal of nationality, covet and wear the servile trappings of place and power, purchased at the expense of their own honor and their country's liberty. [Great applause.] How beautiful the conception, that on this day awakens the slumbering feelings and memories of years, and wafts back to-night, in spirit, to the scenes of our boyhood, the rivers, the valleys, the church, the grave-yard, where our ancestors, for centuries "sleep the sleep that knows no waking," and where, above all and beyond all, repose the ashes of Ireland's patriot martyrs, EMMETT, WOLF, TONE, FITZGERALD, the SHEARS. [Tremendous cheering.] Let the City of New-York, which this day beheld the heaving mass of Irish hearts, the grandest and proudest display that ever fell to the lot of any here to-night to witness on Irish or American soil, answer whether or no "true men like you men are plenty here to-day." [Cries of "Yes, yes," and cheering.] Let this banquet hall, which represents the thousands that this day electrified every heart, say if the fires they kindled do not burn fiercely and bright, awaiting but the favorable moment to burst into a blaze that shall consume British tyranny, its aiders and abettors. [Enthusiastic applause.] Let the wise take heed; let the timid and cold stand aloof; let coward hearts blanche with fear, and brave men take hope and courage. Let the generation that is now stepping to the front stand true to the teachings of the men of "Ninety-eight," and as sure as there is an Omnipotent Being, who holds the destiny of nations in the hollow of his hand, and metes out even-handed justice to the wicked and the good, Irish freedmen will come; and woe to her faithless sons who impede its progress. [Loud cheers.] Who that to-day looked at the brilliant array of Irish banners, borne by Irishmen, marching past, calm, dignified and enthusiastic, unlike their poor countrymen who, a few short weeks, with a black flag at their head, paraded the streets of Galway on their way to the home that English laws make necessary for Irish labor—the poor-house—but, like men, the image of their God, erect and free. What Irishman, I say, that beheld the procession to-day, did not feel his heart swell with conflicting emotions—pride in the men, their patriotism and spirit [cheers]—sorrow, that it was not on Irish soil and under the banner of free and regenerated Ireland they marched, with the hosannas of their gray-haired sires and matrons ringing in their ears, blessing God, they were permitted to behold the dream of their youth realized in their old days, and that from their loins had sprung men worthy to inherit the prestige and renown of their ancient race [renewed cheering]—and shame, bitter shame, that such men had to fly from a land, rich in abundance and beauty of nature—from home, country and kindred—because their foes were united and "joined in hate," while they never "joined in love," the one simple word that would make them a free people, but which, unhappily, they never yet uttered, or, if they did, they never practiced. Would to God, standing here to-night, speaking in the name of a society that represents as proud and intelligent an Irish constituency as the Lord Mayor of Dublin,—that the spirit of my words could across the Atlantic, gathering power, as it went, descend upon the shores of my native land, calling on her people to UNITE, UNITE—unite for freedom's sake; unite for mankind's sake; unite for love of the land that bore you: be slaves to your fears, your jealousies, and your bigotries no longer; but unite in a common and indissoluble bond of love and friendship. [Cheers.] Say to mankind, behold, we no longer send our sons to enrich other lands with their genius and power; their mother now claims their intellects and their arms. An old nation with new life sustains and ennobles their deeds, and will revere their memories; they are no longer soldiers of fortune, purchasing victory for others with their blood and valor, but soldiers of Irish freedom and independence. [Tremendous applause.]

The Corresponding Secretary read several letters from public men. We print those of Gov. FENTON, Admiral PORTER and Archbishop MCCLOSKEY:

FROM GOV. FENTON.

STATE OF NEW-YORK, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, ALBANY, Feb. 27, 1865.

Messrs. P. J. Meehan and Thos. B. Connery:

GENTLEMEN: Your letter of invitation, asking me to be present at the annual banquet of the Knights of St. Patrick, on the anniversary of the distinguished Prelate in whose honor you have been organized, has been received.

It would give me great pleasure to participate in your festivities, but the pressure of official duties, more than usually pressing at this period of the year, compels me to decline. Permit me, however, to assure you of my most cordial wishes in behalf of your order, that it may be an efficient co-worker in the cause of civil liberty.

Respectfully yours,

R. E. FENTON,

FROM ADMIRAL PORTER.

Messrs. P. J. Meehan and Thos. B. Connery:

DEAR SIRS: I regret that my duties prevent my accepting the polite invitation of the Executive Committee of the Knights of St. Patrick to be present and participate at the annual Banquet of the Society on the evening of the 17th of March. It would have afforded me much pleasure and gratification to have been present, to at least have expressed in person my thanks for the honor conferred. May I beg you to do so for me, and to assure the Knights of St. Patrick of my best wishes.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

DAVID D. PORTER, Rear Admiral.

FROM ARCHBISHOP M'CLOSKEY.

NEW-YORK, March 8, 1865.

Messrs. P. J. Meehan and Thos. B Connery:

DEAR SIRS: I owe you apology for not having made earlier acknowledgment of your kind note of 16th ult., in which, on behalf of the Executive Committee of the Knights of St. Patrick, you invite me to attend the annual banquet of the society, to be given at the Metropolitan Hotel on the evening of 17th inst. While I am reluctantly obliged to decline your flattering invitation, I beg to assure you that I am highly sensible of the honor done me, and am very grateful for it. Be pleased to convey to the other members of your committee, and your society at large, the expression of my best thanks, and accept for yourselves the assurances of sincere regard and esteem, with which I am,

Your most obedient servant,

†JOHN, Archbishop of New-York.

The President read the regular toasts as follows:

1. The Republic—May the Angel of Peace soon cover a restored Union with the shadow of her wings.
2. The Day we Celebrate—It commemorates the glory of the bloodless herald of Christianity, and reminds of the perfidy of a cruel and relentless foe.
3. Ireland as a Nation—May the blossoms of freedom now budding on her soil, ripen into a harvest of liberty and independence.
4. Civil and Religious Liberty—The one we glory in, the other we revere; neither to be surrendered while freemen live.
5. The Empire City—The Commercial centre of the Western World, and the fearless defender of popular rights.
6. The Memory of Washington
7. The Irish Soldier—Everywhere chivalrous, generous and brave—may his native fields soon resound to the tramp of the Irish Brigade.
8. The Memory of Emmett and the Martyrs of Irish Freedom.

Our Guests—We welcome them with knightly hospitality and brimming cups.

10. The Press—When pure and free, a blessing to humanity; when venal and bitter, a curse.
11. Woman—Tender, loving and kind; her eyes are our stars, her heart our magnate, and her smiles the sunshine of our gloomy hours.

Mr. A. S. SULLIVAN responded to the first toast. He said that deep in the hearts of Irishmen was a love of this country, which was proven by the fact that the first toast of the evening was to their adopted land. He hoped that when the angel of peace restored our distracted land, the first sentiment of every Irishman would be a desire to see an Irish Republic.

A delegation from the society of Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, composed of Judge DALY, WILLIAM WATTS, and HENRY L. HOVEY, entered the banquet hall, and were welcomed by the President. He introduced Judge DALY, who made a brief address, in which he said the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick sent their respects to the Knights of St. Patrick. He believed that all men who owed their birth to Ireland should unite in one common bond of fellowship.

Mayor GUNTHER responded to the second toast.

Capt. LYON responded to the third toast in an elegant speech, in which he said that he believed there were some men around the table who would see the resurrection day of Ireland.

Speeches were also made by Dr. GUNNING, of BEDFORD, Col. PILLAPHONY and others.

DODSWORTH'S band was present, and during the banquet performed a variety of Irish ballad airs, including "The Harp that once through Tara's Hall," "Rory O'Moore," "Dennybrook Fair," and "Garryowen."

St. Patrick's Day in the Suburbs.

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIETY IN BROOKLYN.

The sixteenth annual dinner of the St. Patrick's Society, of Brooklyn, which with the will of the St. Patrick's Society Club, was really the only observance of the day, was given last evening in the Assembly Rooms of the Academy of Music, Ex-Alderman TIERNAN, the President of the club, presided. The room was tastefully decorated with the flags of the United States and of Ireland. About a hundred and fifty sat at the table. The Assumption Band furnished the music.

In response to the toasts, brief speeches were made by Father Keegan, William E. Robinson, Henry McClosky, Judge Lott, John G. Bergen, and others.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN WILLIAMSBURGH.

As it was not deemed advisable to have a public procession in this District, those who were desirous of making a display started for New-York and helped to adorn the procession there. During the evening the St. Vincent dePaul's Society, connected with the church of that name in North Sixth-street, held a grand soiree at Washington Hall, corner of Fourth and South Seventh streets, the proceeds of which were to be devoted to charitable purposes. The large Hall was crowded, many of the leading citizens of the District were present, and the whole affair was of the most creditable and interesting character. Another organization held forth at Union Hall, but as reporters were denied information and admission, its object or character cannot be stated.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN JERSEY CITY.

St. Patrick's Day in Jersey City was celebrated by a procession of the Hibernian Benevolent Society, St. Patrick's Temperance Society, and St. Peter's Temperance Society. The procession, with banners and music, marched through the principal streets, and in passing the City Hall was reviewed by Mayor CLEVELAND and other officials. In the evening, the Feenian Brotherhood gave a ball at the Hudson House.

St. Patrick's Day at Boston.

BOSTON, Friday, March 17.

The anniversary of St. Patrick was commemorated to-day with the usual demonstrations, and carried out in an imposing manner. The procession numbered from three to four thousand persons, with a military escort and eleven bands of music. The Fenian Brotherhood constituted a marked feature in procession.

THE SENATE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

The Comptroller's Department—Day Laborers with Diamond Pins—The Affairs of the "Transcript"—Testimony of David T. Valentine, Mr. Isaac Edwards and others.

The only member of the committee present on Thursday was Senator MUNGER.

Mr. Charles E. Loew, Collector of City Revenue, was recalled, and testified that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund had reserved several piers from the public sale, which took place last year, but he did not know the reasons for this reservation; all the piers now let by private contract were let at higher rents than they brought previously.

Mr. Robert J. Brown, Superintendent of Market Rents and Fees, testified that the market stalls are let at so much per week; the rents were fixed in the Fall of 1863; tenants are allowed to hold their stalls so long as they conform to the rules and regulations; witness has the power of removing the tenants at his pleasure; he had made changes in the rents, raised some and reduced others; he did not report those changes to the Comptroller; witness has complete control of the whole matter; the rents of Washington Market are collected by Charles Brown; did not know whether all the money received by the Collector was accounted for, and had no means of knowing.

Mr. Rockwell, clerk to the Chamberlain, testified to the manner in which the salaries of city officials are paid; they are required to swear to the truth of their accounts; some parties had demanded money and refused to take the oath; sometimes refused to pay certain claims at all, as when men of respectable appearance applied for pay as day laborers; had saved $5,000 to the city in this way; received no pay for taking affidavits; had refused to pay some half dozen street-sweepers, because he suspected they had not performed the work; a man wearing a diamond pin once claimed pay as a laborer on the roads.

Mr. McKeon said subpœnas had been issued for Mr. Devlin and Mr. Palmer, of the Broadway Bank; for Judge Barnard, Cornelius Corson and George H. Stout, but that none of the parties had made their appearance.

After waiting a short time, the committee adjourned to 10 o'clock this morning.

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

The only member of the committee present yesterday was Senator Munger.

Mr. G. E. Loew, Collector of City Revenue, was recalled. His testimony was not important.

Mr. R. J. Brown, Superintendent of Market Rents and Fees, testified that he knew John Fallon, Clerk of Union Market; did not know, and had never heard it stated that Fallon was also employed in the Novelty Iron Works.

Mr. McKeon—Then you had better inquire.

Mr. Dikeman, Stock Clerk in the Finance Department, was then examined. He produced a proposal for $4,000 Central Park stock, dated June 24, 1864, signed Robert Copely, No. 3 Chambers-street; the rate offered being $102 per $100; witness did not know Mr. Copely personally; did not know his handwriting.

Mr. McKeon—Look at the proposal, and then at the receipt for the stock, and see if the handwritings correspond.

Mr. Lawrence objected, and the objection was allowed.

Mr. McKeon—Has not the bid been altered from 100 to 102?

Witness—Apparently, but I don't know when the alteration was made.

The bids of Messrs. Doty and Wilmot Williams for Central Park Stock, were also produced by witness. He testified that he did not know the handwriting of either party, nor did he know anything about the parties themselves; he made out the bonds for the Fort Gansevoort property by order of the Comptroller; the bonds amounted to $532,437 50; all bids were opened by the Comptroller publicly.

On his cross-examination, witness stated that he knew of no ordinance forbidding parties living out of town from buying city stock.

Mr. McKeon—What I complain of is that parties out of town got the stock for 102 when it was selling at 111. I defy counsel to produce such a person as Mr. Copely.

Mr. Oliver B. Stout testified that he was a reporter for the Daily News, Tribune, and Sun newspapers; is not an official reporter for the courts; has no connection with the Transcript; knows nothing of its circulation; has a brother who was formerly connected with it, but is not now; does not know whether he holds a position as official reporter in the courts; does not know where his brother now is; has not seen him for some time.

John H. Price testified that he is a lawyer by profession, and attends to the law department of the Transcript; is employed by the editor, Cornelius Corson; Mr. Corson is, or was also stenographic reporter to the Court of Common Pleas; never saw him reporting there; Corson is also Chief of the Enrollment Bureau; he is now lying sick at Deposit; he is on his way to the oil regions; did not know all the parties connected with the Transcript; has seen the articles of copartnership; declined to give the names because he was employed professionally in drawing them up.

Mr. McKeon said he wished to show that the Transcript received some $180,000 per annum from the city, and that the paper was owned by members of the city and county government.

Witness subsequently stated that the articles of partnership comprised the names of George Stout, Oliver Stout, Cornelius Corson and George F. W. Martin; witness did not know the circulation of the Transcript; it might be 100,000 copies.

The Chairman thought there was no necessity for going further into the affairs of the Transcript.

Mr. David T. Valentine, Clerk of the Common Council, testified that he had held that position since 1845; prepares the Manual of the Common Council; has nothing further to do with it than to compile it; the object of the book is to give information; commenced compiling the books in 1841; does not know what its cost was then; a great deal of the matter contained in the book might be dispensed with, but the idea was to make the book interesting to the public as well as to city officials; tried to make the book as interesting as possible; all the matter contained in the book was of some interest; 7,000 copies were last year given to members of the Common Council; the books are not for sale; never knew what the book cost to publish; was allowed $3,500 last year for compiling it; it is printed by Mr. Edmund Jones; the lithographing is done by several parties; a resolution was passed giving the reporters of the Common Council $200 each last year; they report the debates; the other reporters give the official proceedings only.

Mr. R. M. Boole, formerly in the Street Department, Mr. C. A. Brown and Mr. John Pickford, collectors of market rents, were also examined. The evidence of the two latter went to show that the affairs of the department with which they are connected are conducted in a very loose manner, there being no check whatever upon the collector's accounts.

Mr. Isaac Edwards, Superintendent of Roads, testified that he had 100 miles of road to look after; sometimes employed 300 laborers; had heard that some of these men had not called for their pay; did not know the reason; one of these men was named Sawers; had seen Sawers at work on the roads repeatedly; Mr. Rockwell, who paid these laborers, refused to settle with Sawers, because he also held a position as night watchman in the Croton Aqueduct Department.

Mr. Crow, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms to the committee, testified that he had been unable to find Mr. Robert Copely at No. 3 Chambers-street, and therefore could not subpœna him.

Mr. Wilmot Williams testified that he wrote and sent to the Comptroller a proposal for Central Park stock, signed A. S. Williams; it was on behalf of his son, A. S. Williams, who was absent from the city; he got the stock at 101; there were bids as high as 111; the Comptroller was much in want of money at the time.

The committee then adjourned to 10:30 A. M., to-day.

Thirty-fifth Annual Commencement of the College of Pharmacy.

The thirty-fifth annual commencement of the College of Pharmacy, of New-York, was held on Thursday evening, at the Chapel of the New-York University, Washington-square.

The exercises were opened by an appropriate prayer by Rev. Dr. ISAAC FERRIS, Chancellor of the New-York University.

The degree of graduate in pharmacy was conferred on the following members of the graduating class by ISAAC CODDINGTON, Vice-President of the College, in which he gave a brief account of the College and its objects: Maximilian Frohwein, New-York; Rob't. C. Kennedy, Cleveland, Ohio; John Best, England; Emilis Xiques y Zebada, Puerto Principe, Cuba; Frank Etheridge, Hastings, Minn., and Ferris W. Colby, of Defiance, Ohio. A degree was also conferred upon RAMON BUCETA, of Havana, who is not in the city, having passed an examination last Fall. The Secretary received his diploma.

Prof. FERDINAND F. MAYER addressed the graduating class. After complimenting the students, he said that the pharmaceutist should not only be instructed in the duties he was to perform, but should be guided by a proper spirit in following his profession. The College of Pharmacy was established by eminent apothecaries of New-York, who felt the want of principle in the members of the profession. He spoke of the many persons who dispense drugs, without understanding their qualities, as an evil that should be corrected. The speaker said that many deaths occurred from the mistakes of drug clerks in compounding medicines, resulting from the want of practical knowledge. This fact was frequently proved by coroner's inquests. He advocated a system of apprenticeship similar to that which prevails in many European countries.

Mr. FRANK ETHERIDGE, a member of the graduating class, made an interesting valedictory address, when the audience was dismissed with the benediction.

Dodworth's band was present and skillfully performed several beautiful selections from operas.

The Draft and Recruiting.

The draft will be resumed this morning in all the Congressional Districts except the Sixth—the drawing in that district having been finished on Thursday. In the Fourth District, the Third and Fifth Wards will be drawn; in the Fifth District, the Seventh and the Eighth Wards; in the Seventh District, the Eleventh Ward will be continued, and the Seventeenth Ward begun; in the Eighth District, the Twenty-first Ward; in the Ninth District, the Nineteenth and Twenty-second Wards will be drawn.

Recruiting improved a little at the County Volunteer Committee rooms yesterday morning, and quite a large sum was received from persons in want of substitutes. The parade of the celebrants of St. Patrick's Day put a stop to business, however, after 1 o'clock. At the Park and Battery recruiting stations the operations footed up thirty-five men.

Movements are on foot on the part of many influential citizens for the holding of public meetings to stimulate enlistments.

The residents of the Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Wards announce a meeting for Monday evening, at the Grammercy Park Hotel, and the following call for a meeting on Tuesday in the Sixth Congressional District has been issued:

RECRUITING MOVEMENT.

A meeting will be held at "Seventh Assembly District Headquarters," No. 98 Sixth-avenue, on Tuesday evening, 21st inst., at 7½ P. M., for the purpose of adopting new measures for the encouragement of enlistments in the army and navy. The residents of the Ninth and Fifteenth Wards, and all others (irrespective of party) interested in this movement, are earnestly invited to attend.

LAUNCH AT GREENPOINT.

The light draught monitor Madoc will be launched on Monday, 2 P. M., at the foot of Greenpoint-avenue, Greenpoint, from the yard of her builder, Mr. J. S. UNDERHILL. Tickets of invitation have been issued, and the affair promises to be one of considerable interest to all who feel interested in naval movements.

To-day, at 12 o'clock M., SIMONSON will launch a side-wheel steamer, next to the yard of Mr. UNDERHILL.

LAUNCH OF THE MONITOR SHAWNEE.

The light draught monitor Shawnee was successfully launched, after two unsuccessful attempts, from the yard of Messrs CURTISS & TILDEN, East Boston, at twenty minutes before 12, Tuesday. She was duly christened by the daughter of Capt. J. T. GREEN, U. S. N. She is one of twenty light draught monitors ordered by the Government, and was raised 22 inches above the original design. She is 225 feet long, and 45 feet broad; width inside the hull, 37 feet; total depth from top of armor to under dial keel, 11 feet 2 inches; diameter of turret, 20 feet; thickness of turret walls, 8 inches iron plating; hight of turret, 9 feet; diameter of pilot-house, 6 feet; thickness of pilot-house walls, 10 inches; hight of pilot-house walls, 6 feet 6 inches. Her armament is two guns of heavy calibre.

PRIZE DISTRIBUTIONS.

The following list of prize distributions is made by the District Court for the Southern District of Florida, during the month of January. We give the name of prize, the capturing vessel, and the amount:

Steamer Mayflower, captured by steamer Union $18,223 21.
Sloop Mary, by bark Roebuck, $8,543.
Schooner Linda, by schooner Beauregard, $1,066 15.
Sloop Florida, by steamer Honeysuckle, $1,104 72.
Sloop Resolute, by schooner Beauregard, $440 72.
Schooner Three Brothers, by Steamer Nita, $1,445 28.
Sloop Hannah, by schooner Beauregard, $216 50.
Sloop Garibaldi, by schooner Beauregard, $4,770 80.
Schooner O. K., by steamer Union, $2,592 84.
Sloop Maria Louisa, by bark Roebuck, $3,697 86.
Schooner Miriam 2d, by steamer Honeysuckle, $2,501 37.
Sloop Racer, by schooner Beauregard, $5,669 25.
Schooner Le Aitad, by steamer San Jacinto, $38,880 98.
Schooner Fly, steamer Honeysuckle, $458 85.
Schooner Caroline Gertrude, by steamer Stars and Stripes, $15,218 54.
Sixty-seven bales cotton, by steamer Clyde, $24,764 06.

This makes a grand total of $129,594 08 of prize as decreed by the court. Up to the 1st of January, this year, the prize court had decreed the sum of $2,990,307 98 for distribution; the total sales being $3,307,999 34, showing that the expenses were only 9 per cent. Of these expenses $125,000 were incurred in transportation to New-York for sales there; but as the sales here were probably more advantageous than they would have been at Key West, perhaps the additional expenses have been more than met. Since Jan. 1 six cases have been decreed for distribution, amounting to $11,000; sixty more cases will probably have been similarly decreed till within a month since. Among the latter is the case of the steamer Cumberland.

The Production and Consumption of Cotton.

Hon. FREDERICK A. CONKLING lectured before the American Geographical and Statistical Society on Thursday evening, at Clinton Hall, on the "Production and Consumption of Cotton."

The attendance was large, composed of many of our most intelligent citizens. Judge DALY presided.

Mr. CONKLING said that the cotton-growing territory of the United States comprised about one-fifth of the area devoted to raising cotton in the world. He read some statistics, prepared by Prof. A. J. SCHEM, of this city, from which it appeared that of the twelve hundred and eighty-five million inhabitants of the world, seven hundred millions are clothed entirely by cotton fabrics, while all but seventy million use cotton to more or less extent. East India produces six millions of bales of 400 pounds each, per annum; China, twelve millions; while the entire production of the world is thirty millions of bales. The United States has raised five millions of bales, exerting an influence upon the mercantile world much beyond its intrinsic importance. In conclusion, the speaker predicted that when the present struggle was terminated we would regain all we have lost by the introduction of improved machinery and the employment of white labor.

The thanks of the Society were voted to Mr. CONKLING for his address, and a copy of the paper requested for publication.

Judge DALY returned thanks to Mr. CONKLING, in a complimentary speech, in which he said that few papers, in such brief space, embraced so many facts of interest, and those were of national importance.

The paper which contains much very valuable statistical information will be published by the society in pamphlet form.

PROOF-READERS' ASSOCIATION.—An adjourned meeting will be held this (Saturday) evening, at 8 o'clock, in the rooms of the New-York Typographical society. All proof-readers are particularly invited to attend, as well as others interested in the improvement of typographical accuracy.

SOZODONT.

An article that is at once a teeth preserver and breath purifier, and yet so pleasant and convenient to use, its exceeding popularity does not surprise any one. DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF.

State of Affairs at Mobile—Latest News from the Red River—The Military Situation—Interesting Miscellaneous Intelligence.

From Our Own Correspondent.

New-Orleans, Friday, March 3, 1865.

The rebels, in the most judicious manner imaginable, keep themselves pretty much to themselves, and, therefore, all news purporting to come from Mobile is of the most straggling nature. Occasionally, however, the "reliable gentleman" turns up, and then we hear something, of course. Very few Mobile papers find their way to this city, none having been received at any of the newspaper offices for the last ten days. Generally, the Picayune office, if any, receives the freshest intelligence, in the way of newspapers, &c., from Mobile, but of late they admit there seems to have been some obstructions thrown upon their subterranean routes, and they know at present as little as do their neighbors, regarding matters and things in Southern Alabama.

The real situation of affairs in that section, according to the latest information, is substantially as follows: Gen. Richard Taylor is in full command, with headquarters at Selma. Gen. Dabney H. Maury commands at Mobile. None of Hood's old army is at present in Mississippi, but is congregated at different points all along the Alabama River from Montgomery to Mobile. The only troops in the city proper are two divisions, under Frank Gardner and M. S. Smith. Gardner's troops are old soldiers, who have never seen much service, however, and Smith's division is two small brigades of militia. The strength of the army is encamped inside of fortifications about four miles from Mobile, and includes French's, Loring's and Walthall's divisions of infantry, and Buford's and Chalmer's divisions of cavalry—all under command of Gen. Alexander Stewart. Richard Taylor's old command, now under Tom. Taylor, is at Montgomery, and Stevenson's division of Stephen D. Lee's corps is at Selma. The latter place and Mobile are the two really important points in Alabama, and are being strongly fortified.

THE LATEST FROM UP RED RIVER.

I have some very interesting news from up Red river. You may consider it strictly reliable: First, That Kirby Smith and Maximilian understand each other perfectly well. Secondly, That the former has cut loose from the headquarters of the Southern Confederacy, although there still may exist some ostensible signs that he continues to act as one of Jeff. Davis' subordinates, and thirdly, that we shall never again be troubled, in any offensive way, with what is known as the Rebel Trans-Mississippi Army. A few days ago Gen. Kirby Smith sent down between twelve and fifteen hundred of the prisoners captured by him during the Banks failure. Those with whom I conversed join in stating their belief to be that Smith has certainly given the go-by to Jeff. Davis, and that henceforth they constitute two parties. His means of communication with Maximilian are easy and adequate, and he does not slightly treat with much advantages. Smith has two reasons, in particular, for acting thus. In the first place he is an ambitious, rapacious soldier. He would rather reign in hell than serve in heaven. He knows that the existence of the Southern Confederacy is approaching its end, and he knows, with the assistance of Maximilian, that he has got the Trans-Mississippi Army under his thumb. In the next place, Smith gets well payed for his performance; and, really, there is nothing strange in the act, after all. Any man who would turn traitor to such a Government as ours, would not hesitate in turning tail on such a rotten concern as the bogus Confederacy. Again, the nomadic Governors of Louisiana, Alabama and Texas do not want Smith to go East. And again, Smith's army is well clothed and well fed. An abundance of all the necessaries of life are raised in Texas, while a sufficiency of all kinds of war material and clothing is furnished his troops via the Rio Grande. Therefore, in all probability the army is as well satisfied with the present condition of things as its leader.

MATAMORAS.

There has been a line of ships running between this city and Matamoras. Yesterday a vessel arrived from that place. From a passenger on board, formerly an attaché of the Philadelphia Press, I learned that this is a great place. Secretly, this is the financial headquarters of Gen. Kirby Smith; and curious to relate, money—silver money, at that—abounds in Matamoras. Beside, it is the loafing place of Kirby Smith's officers. There it is that they go to enjoy their furloughs. There is an abundance of everything to encourage profligacy—abandoned women, gambling-hells, horse racing, bull fighting—and plenty of money. At the time my informant left, there were three general officers of the Trans-Mississippi Army at the principal hotel, while hundreds of minor officers were living high in various parts of the city. The general officers who were at Matamoras were Brig.-Gens. Herbert, Derby and Polignac; the latter was on his way to France.

Large quantities of cotton had been, all Winter, arriving from Texas, and continues to arrive without stint. Nearly all the large warehouses are crammed with this important staple, most all of which finds its way there through the assistance of rebel officers. In return they receive specie at the rate of forty cents a pound, landed. Machinery, of all kinds, clothing, fancy goods, etc., etc., are also exchanged, and it seems to be a well-established fact that at least two-thirds of such merchandise arrives from New-York. If this latter is true, and I doubt it not, we are actually trading with the rebels in open day, and contributing toward the sustaining of Kirby Smith's army. A rebel officer made his brag to my friend that every shot fired at Banks' men was caused by percussion caps made in, or at least forwarded from New-York. I also learn that the new population is almost wholly made up from skulkers from the draft—North and South.

OUR SITUATION.

As I have informed you, the detachments of troops which have for some time been under command of Gen. Gordon Granger, have been strengthened by the arrival of four or five new regiments, and the entire body has been organized, and will hereafter be known as the Thirteenth Army Corps, Maj.-Gen. Gordon Granger. The entire corps is somewhere in the vicinity of Mobile, the General's headquarters being at Fort Gaines. Gen. Canby and staff have been on a visit to Granger, and returned here a few days ago. The troops are represented as being in good health and in fine condition. The larger part of the Thirteenth Corps belong to regiments from the Eastern and Middle States, and participated in the battles up Red River under Banks.

The Sixteenth Army Corps, Gen. A. J. Smith, is still encamped upon what is known as the "Battle-ground," eight miles south of the city. This corps has also been strengthened by the arrival of five new regiments, and is in fine condition, although the encampment is inadvertently located on low ground. Gen. Smith's headquarters is at present upon the steamer Brilliant, at the levee, six miles from the city. There are two Eastern regiments in the Sixteenth Corps—the One Hundred and Seventy-eighth New-York and Thirty-fourth New-Jersey. Both are in the Second Division, Gen. Garrard.

Gen. Kenner Garrard, commanding Second Division, and Gen. John McArthur, commanding First Division Sixteenth Army Corps, received intelligence yesterday that they had been made Maj.-Generals by brevet, for special bravery on the Nashville battle field. They are both brave men and good soldiers. McArthur was at Donelson and Shiloh, and has figured with renown in the West during the war. Garrard did great service during the Atlanta campaign, and made one of the best cavalry raids during the war when he struck in the rear of Atlanta and tore up the railroad from Decatur forty miles east. Let them have a good chance before Mobile, and they will earn the two stars with all their brilliancy.

Gen. Kilby Smith, commanding Third Division, is on a leave of absence, but will return the latter part of this week.

MARDI-GRAS.

The 28th ultimo was Shrove Tuesday, and in the Catholic world is the termination of the Carnival season, and the day immediately preceding the commencement of Lent. In the old time of the Church the people were suffered to indulge in festive amusements, but were not permitted to partake bountifully of food, and then only of the general substitutes for flesh. On this day the recreations of the people were of the most wanton character, and from that word sprang the term "carnivale," (carni vale,) or "farewell to flesh," in allusion to the great fast of Lent, during which it was prohibited.

In this city there are pleasant traditions of Mardi-Gras. Men, women and children, of all sizes, color, and nativities, are alike licensed to dress and do as they please. Since the war, until this year, the day has passed quietly by. But on Friday last, Mardi-Gras passed off with its usual éclat. Nearly all the stores were closed, and multitudes of men, women and children walked and rode the streets grotesquely dressed from morn till night. Thousands of masqueraders, in the disguise of monks, nuns, Turks, Chinese, Negroes, Bohemians, &c., held the pave. Hundreds of cabs and hacks, rolled by the St. Charles containing women dressed in men's clothes, wearing no masks. Really, this thing originated with the French Catholic population, and is kept up by them in a respectable manner to this time. At present, however, the abandoned women of this city make it their holiday, and celebrate it by dressing up in men's clothes and dashing through the streets on horseback or on foot. They visit all the drinking saloons, and otherwise behave themselves like fast men. I understand that young wives take advantage of this day, and penetrate strange places to watch their husbands, while often times virtuous young girls, with masks, seek the interior of a maison de plaisir, to see how things are conducted. The day finishes up with grand masquerade balls.

LOSS OF THE STEAMER ARIZONA—AN INCIDENT.

The United States steamer Arizona, one of the best built of her class, was destroyed, on Monday last, by fire and explosion, between this city and the delta. She was on her return trip from the Southwestern Pass, and was on her way up to the city with Acting Rear-Admiral Thatcher. The Arizona, when within 30 miles of New-Orleans, got aground on the bar, and the Circassian, coming up, took off the Admiral and his suite. About an hour afterward, a fire broke out in the engineer's room, and in ten minutes subsequently the vessel was enveloped in flames. All hands on board were removed in safety, just in time to see their craft blown to atoms by the explosion of her magazine. The officers and men lost all their clothes and valuables, as their exit from the jaws of death was made speedily. It was thought that five of the crew perished, but this is not so. Two were lost by drowning, and the other three, reported lost, had been put down on the list as deserters some days before.

On Monday last I visited Gen. Smith's camp, some nine miles below the city, and, by invitation of some staff officers, stayed over night at a large house, ten miles from New-Orleans, on the river. After supper a game of whist was put in operation, which was kept up until about 12 o'clock, when a scene of considerable terror and excitement occurred. The whole house actually reeled, and the windows and doors were violently shattered. Two candles which were stuck to the table were thrown to the floor, and several glasses which stood upon the shelf were rattled together. "For God's sake! what's that?" shouted one, and "Where are we?" came from several voices. Lieut. McLeod, of Gen. Garrard's Staff, argued the thing at length, and, taking into consideration that the bones of the English killed at the battle of New-Orleans were buried near us, came to the conclusion that the shock was caused by spiritual manifestations. I finally persuaded all hands that it was an earthquake. It was, however, caused by the explosion of the Arizona's magazine, twenty miles off.

THE DRAFT—ENROLLMENT ORDER NO. 2.

The draft ordered by Gen. Canby is put through daily, and they say, without fear or favor. It scoops up unmercifully the white, black and mahogany colored, high and low, rich and poor, Jew and Gentile, great and small. A "fellow of authority" goes to the hotels daily to read the names of the guests, as the transients are deemed, like the old residents, not unfit for martial use. I have never seen such squirming, but have not spoken feelingly upon the subject until reading the following order, which made its appearance to-day. Here is the order. It shows that there is to be no child's play about it. There is already one regiment of drafted men in camp:

Sup't's Office Vol. Recruiting Service, and Office Act. Asst. Provost-Marshal General,
State of Louisiana, and Depart'm't of the Gulf,
New-Orleans, March 2, 1865.

1. Persons who have failed to comply with the requirements of Enrollment Order No. 1, issued from Headquarters, Department of the Gulf, Oct. 29, 1864, are hereby informed that on and after the 15th instant, any person, either a permanent or transient resident, within the limits of this department, who has not a certificate showing him to have complied with the above noted order, will be subject to arrest and punishment. And all Provost-Marshals, Boards of Enrollment, and officers connected with the execution of the draft, will instruct their guards to examine all persons on and after that date, with a view to the detection and punishment of those attempting to evade their responsibilities.

II. To facilitate the issue of certificates to persons already enrolled in the City of New-Orleans, a sub-office has been established at No. 25 Perdido-street, which will be open from 9 A. M. to 5 o'clock P. M. each day.

Persons who arrive in the city will also report for enrollment at this office.

III. It is to be distinctly understood that all persons between the ages of 18 and 45 years, white or colored, must, when called upon, be able to show either the certificate of a Board of Enrollment, exempting them from military duty, or a certificate that they have been properly enrolled.

SHELDON STURGEON,
Col., Supt. Volunteer Recruiting Service, and Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal General.

This order produced quite a commotion among some of the correspondents, in which your humble servant did not take part. My name is registered at the St. Charles, and my room is No. 42. I may move after the 14th, however.

TERRIBLE RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A terrible accident occurred yesterday, about 12 o'clock, M., on the Opelousas Railroad, in which nine persons were burned to death, and between forty and fifty horribly mutilated—all of whom belonged to the gallant Thirty-third Illinois Regiment. This body of men have, for some time, been guarding this road for fifty miles, but were recently ordered to report to New-Orleans, as a negro regiment had been assigned to the duties which the Thirty-third had so faithfully and untiringly performed. The accident was caused by the locomotive running into a mule, and occurred about ten miles from this city. The accident is described by an eye-witnesses as appalling in the extreme, but the engineer and fireman were exonerated from all blame.

THE LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE.

I make you aware, by a little item, of some of the disgraceful antics of the "gentlemen" who are presumed to compose the body known as the "Legislature of Louisiana." It is an actual fact that these modern Solons have collectively been on a drunk for nearly a month. But twice in that time has a quorum been seen in the Senate, and then it was a drunken wrangling quorum, and amounted to shucks. The New-Orleans Times, the leading daily, and a strong upright Union journal, this morning, gets off the following. And, by the way, I will state that the people are highly incensed at the operations of this dirty crowd. The demon of secession seems to have created a degeneracy among all men who have been so unfortunate as to have been in any way associated with it:

"One of the resplendent luminaries now shining forth from the City Hall, for the admiration of a wonder-stricken world, the other day conceived a notion worthy of the famous member of the old Rump Parliament, and the sagacious and renowned Praise-God-Barebones of illustrious memory.

Know ye all men by these presents that a bill is offered in the Legislature of "Louisiana," providing:

"That the General Assembly adjourn for sixty days on the 4th inst."

Now certainly the people of New-Orleans have no objection to the proposed adjournment, and in fact would be delighted if the adjournment were until a few weeks after time and eternity had ceased, which, however, is, we are rather afraid, what has been termed an "improbable possibility." Yet they are naturally curious to know the occasion of this extraordinary movement on the part of our Solons. For instance, they are curious to know:

Whether the members intend to become so gloriously drunk upon the 4th March as to be rendered incapable for any attention to business for sixty days?

Whether their now almost historical per diem runs on during those sixty days?

What new election dodge is hidden behind those sixty days?

Above all does the Legislature of New-Orleans dare the danger of constituting itself into another long Parliament, and impudently adjourn for months, and then reassemble, our lords and masters still, at their own will and pleasure? Are they Roman patricians? Be their names inscribed in the Golden Book? Are they of the blood of the Plantagenets, or perchance of Brian Boroihm, that they are by nature constituted our rulers, whose prerogatives will be transmitted to their descendants for ever and ever amen?

Ten-pot legislators, picayune Napoleons, eight dollar Emperors, exalted lords of creation and rag-tag and bob-tail of all creation generally, this outraged people pause for a reply.

They will not wait much longer. They will petition the power that raised them before from the very class of men lording it now, that they seize the reins of abused power and give them the satisfaction of knowing that if their rulers are strict, domestic knaves and profligate politicians will be compelled to earn an honest living or starve."

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The Treasury Agency, at Natchez, advertises the following abandoned plantations to lease for the present year: "Brandon," containing 1,500 acres under cultivation; "Lochdale and Lockhaven," containing about 3,000 acres; "Le' Argent," containing about 800 acres; "Canewa," containing 609 acres of land; "Ashwich," containing 1,200 acres of land.

Two steamers from New-York—the first in over a month—arrived at this port last night. They were the Guiding Star and George Cromwell. The latter brings the following passengers: Miss Orchard, Mrs. F. M. Gardner, H. D. Levy, G. Una, Mrs. G. B. Gray and infant, James W. A. Lemer, A. W. Fourtier, Mrs. H. A. Simmonds, Sarah Kassanah, G. Gaimier, F. Barrett, J. M. St. Eugion, Mrs. H. D. Clark, Miss E. M. Clark, C. Soniatt, Hugh Fasler, E. Schultz, F. Pascal, Louis Romenant, C. Lambut, Mrs. Lambut, M. Andre, B. O. Plauche, Mrs. W. A. Brainard and three children, F. Gavalle, Major P. Hagarty, W. B. McAny, M. Hearney, James Kennedy, Col. F. D. Hitchcock, Mrs. Hitchcock, R. M. Denman, P. P. Coulis. They left New-York on the 22d ultimo.

The news of the fall of Charleston was received here with great enthusiasm. Gen. Canby ordered a salute fired, while pyrotechnics, in the shape of rockets, were fired from many private residences.

Two of the last steamers which have arrived here by river, report guerrillas upon Islands Nos. 49 and 53. Several shots were fired at the Missouri.

E. Eddy is running the "Poor of New-York" at his theatre. He plays Badger. The Webb sisters have given up their engagement at the St. Charles, and will return to New-York in a couple of weeks.

There is to be a monster procession of the firemen of New-Orleans to-morrow.

BORDER STATES AFTER THE WAR.

THIRD LETTER.

The Oil Regions of West Virginia—Parkersburgh and Charleston—General Characteristics and Prospects of the New State.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Parkersburgh, W. Va., Friday, Feb. 24, 1865.

A sober man thinks about the length of the way before him; a drunken man about its breadth; an oil man about its depth—its depth in two senses; first, as respects wading through the miry ocean to his destination; second, as respects the distance to be bored before reaching the oleaginous deposit, or, to use a Scripture expression, "before he dips his foot in oil." The boat which conveyed me to this place brought down a goodly number of men prospecting for themselves or companies. For the most part they are, as yet, intelligent, thoughtful, cultivated men, who have abandoned, for a time, the elegancies of city life, to "rough it" in this half-reclaimed wilderness. Perhaps the swarm of laborers expected to follow after the mud dries up, will be of a less reputable character. For the principal operations yet carried on here are but preparatory to the boring and refining and shipping expected to go on during the Summer.

The boat also brought down some machinery, such as steam-boilers, with engines on their backs, and other apparatus needed here. This kind of freight now enters quite largely into the business of the boats plying between this place and Pittsburgh.

Parkersburgh, situated at the western terminus of the Northwestern (Virginia) Railroad, contains about 3,000 inhabitants, and is growing alike in wealth and population. It contains four or five large churches, a court-house, two hotels, which charge first-class prices, if they do not afford first-class accommodations. A considerable number of spacious and some elegant stores have lately been erected; and altogether, despite the fort of mud in its streets and most of its sidewalks, the place looks prosperous enough. During the Winter only one train a day runs out to the oil-wells.

The nearest of these is about twelve miles back, and not far from the line of the railroad. From that point they stretch south and east about an equal distance; the most productive wells, however, being along a "divide," where the strata, usually horizontal, have been disturbed and upheaved somewhat, so that they are inclined in opposite directions. The fissures in which oil is found in this State are usually on or near this hitch in the coal-beds. In this respect it differs from Ohio, where the liquid is more widely diffused over the coal region. It differs still more widely from Pennsylvania and Canada, in which the oil is not found in direct contact with coal, but with sandstone. Geologically speaking the deposit is here found in or near the coal measures; in Pennsylvania with the Devonian, and in Canada with the Silurian rocks.

In West Virginia, and at some points near Marietta, Ohio, oil is got in connection with salt springs. In general, however, the borings have not been sufficiently deep to reach the brine. The oil wells of West Virginia and Ohio seldom reach 500 feet in depth; in Pennsylvania they often run down to 700 or 800 feet. What effect may be produced by sinking to this depth remains to be seen.

The first discovery of this strange product dates back beyond the memory of man, if not beyond the records of history. It is known that the Indians were accustomed to gather it from the springs and use it medicinally. For a very small quantity of it the early white settlers were wont to pay almost fabulous prices. At length they acquired a knowledge of the localities; spread their blankets over the surface, and, wringing them out, collected the "patent medicine" of that day. They bottled it and barreled it, yet never thought seriously of digging wells to obtain it for exportation in quantities until about five years ago. Then a few wells were sunk 20 to 50 feet, and the oil dipped up with "the old oaken bucket which hung in the well." The war nipped the incipient excitement, and let Western Pennsylvania get the start of West Virginia.

The latter, as she was first in the field, is coming up in the race as fast as can be expected. Fresh discoveries are announced every day from the valleys of the Great Kanahwa on the south, to the lower end of the "Pan-handle" on the north, and how much further in both directions it were impossible to say. Land is changing hands so rapidly, either by lease or sale, that the printing of blanks has become almost a business. At every prominent point the "shingles" of land agents are hung out. Near the oil springs lands have run up in price from ten to one hundred fold, and in all the western counties of this State from two to four fold. Taking the belt of thirty miles back of the river I think it probable that one-fourth has already changed hands, at every imaginable rate, from $25 per acre upward.

A word about wages. Skilled mechanics are usually paid from $5 to $6 per day; engineers from $3 to $4, and common laborers about $3. Companies usually make arrangements by which their men can get boarding and lodging at $6 or $7 per week.

Very amusing stories are often told about the resident farmers, who find themselves nonplussed by coming into possession of so much money all at once. The poor fellows were not accustomed to handle such huge rolls of bank paper; and in some cases the first step is to plunge over head and ears into extravagance. The greater number, however, are described as sensible men, who look upon the discovery as only temporary, and expect to get back their lands, after the exhaustion of the oil, for a mere trifle. As some of the wells have already given out, the springs being tapped by adjoining borings, there is apparently some reason for their great expectations.

But the men who talk of the oil excitement as a humbug, and oil men as swindlers, ought to come and see for themselves. In truth, it is a great source of national as well as individual wealth, the extent of which is far beyond our calculations.

Charleston, on the Great Kanahwa, is also, with Parkersburgh, becoming a point of much interest, containing about 2,500 inhabitants. It is situated at the head of navigation, the river being open all the year round. Its name ("Shaded by Trees" in Indian,) is well deserved; for few rivers on the continent are prettier, or present a greater variety of scenery. New River (one of the Kanahwa's tributaries,) furnishes a grand water-power just above Charleston, the water tumbling about forty feet within two miles, and the stream never becoming dry. In the neighborhood are extensive beds of bituminous and cannel coal—the latter nine or ten feet thick. The salt springs close by are also an abundant source of wealth. Add to these the fact that iron ore can be had in any quantity, and oil is expected; that the village and neighborhood are healthy and picturesque; that the people are loyal, friendly, and not at all unrefined in manners; that one line of railway, already graded, will pass by it, and probably another reach it from the northeast; that Charleston is the nearest point of any consequence to the geographical centre of the State, and, therefore, as likely as any other to become the capital of West Virginia, (if that be an advantage,) and we have a train of circumstances which cannot fail to give it a glorious future.

All accounts agree in representing that the negro element has nearly disappeared from that section of the state, where it was the most abundant. During the corruptions of Floyd and Wise, in 1861 and 1862, followed by the advance and then the retreat of the Union armies, all this species of "property" that had been left by the rebels, followed our armies. So far I have not heard a solitary complaint about any locality being infested with a lazy, indolent horde of freed negroes, such as might have been expected. The West Virginians speak of the exploits of Sambo in the army with pride and pleasure.

The more I look at this country, the better I become convinced that it was at one time, like Central Ohio and most of the prairie States, a grand platau, with an average elevation at least equal to the summits of the hills. The river must have gradually eaten its way into the soil and soft rock composing its bed; then the hundreds of tributaries imitated it, cutting away the land on both sides with gullies and ravines, and leaving the faces of the hills in many places like pyramids, with regular terraces on their steep sides, in some cases, from five to ten, as smooth and level as if they had been graded by human skill for purposes of highways; in others, from 20 to 100 in number, like steps on a staircase. Let the person who is disposed to question this theory explain the following:

1. The hills along the river are of nearly uniform height, never arising above 600 feet, and seldom being as low as that figure. As one goes back from the river he finds, on both sides, the summits rise slightly, while the river bottoms ascend quite rapidly, so that, after passing twenty or thirty miles, the former disappear in the plateau.

2. There is hardly anywhere the least perceptible "dip" or inclination in the rocks, north or south, east or west. I have examined them to the depths of hundreds of feet on both sides of the river, and find that, with exception of an occasional "hitch," (the work of earthquakes probably,) the layers of sand-stone, coal, shale, &c., are disposed as horizontally as it seems possible to strew them. Has any person seen a mountain or chain of mountains with this characteristic? I do not recall a single instance, and believe there is none.

3. We see the process of erosion go on day by day at a rate such as can hardly be imagined at the East, where the rocks are harder, and therefore less liable to decay.

Here is a text for the disciples of Lyell, when they undertake to settle the question of the age of our globe as fitted for human habitation.

Let me sum up in West Virginia by observing that, as adapted to the production of grain, it is not of much account. It will probably be insufficient to supply the wants of its own population with wheat, corn, &c. On the other hand, it is well fitted for dairy products, having a fair admixture of lime in its soil, while for sheep pasturage it has probably no superior. Mr. Campbell, of Bethany, is the owner of some 2,000 of these innocents, and his fleece has been pronounced by competent judges the best in the United States. For fruits, such as apples, pears, cherries, peaches, grapes and the like, the country is exceedingly well adapted. But the great sources of its future prosperity lie beneath the surface in inexhaustible beds of coal, iron and copper, in springs of oil, sulphur and salt-brine. It has a healthy climate, the choicest scenery and a warm-hearted, strong-limbed and freedom-loving people. Good qualities to begin with, it will be admitted.

In religious matters the Methodists are the most influential denomination, particularly in the back-country districts. Politically, nearly all are Unionists and Republicans—the few F. F.s, who sympathized with secession at first, now presenting a discreet silence. Before the war this was the "Democratic" section of Virginia—that which always was relied upon to turn the scale against the Whig or Native American East. How the events of four years have changed the position of parties!

FOURTH LETTER.

Newport and Covington, Kentucky—The Blue Grass Region—Agricultural Prospects and Prices—Trade and Industry in Lexington—Slavery Melting Away from Kentucky.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

Lexington, Ky., Wednesday, March 1, 1865.

Yesterday forenoon I left the Queen City for Newport, directly across the Ohio, and separated from Covington by the Licking River. Newport is the more easterly of the two, and contains about 12 000 inhabitants; while Covington is rated at between 20,000 and 25,000, both growing steadily. Newport has several iron manufactories, furnaces and rolling-mills; also, a paper-mill. Covington appears to be more sought as a suburban residence by business men engaged in Cincinnati. Newport is somewhat old-fashioned and slow for these times; but in both are a goodly number of respectable buildings, public and private. One of the public school-houses is large, commodious, and, indeed, elegant in design.

Up the west side of the Licking, for about forty miles, the country is rugged and broken, as on the north side of the Ohio. The strata of shale or sandstone are also horizontal, showing no signs of upheaval. There we behold "surface indications" of limestone, also horizontally arranged. At Falmouth, where we cross the river, we observe the first block-house for the protection of the railroad bridge. These crossings as far as Paris are numerous, and the means of protection correspondingly so. We are in the region infested by guerrillas, and the troops stationed along this part of the line require to sleep with at least one eye open.

At Cynthiana, a rather pretty village for Kentucky, we behold abundant evidences of war's rude ravages, inflicted during Morgan's raid in 1862 and 1864. The railroad depot and the court-house are still in ruins, together with sundry private dwellings. But the country, now resting on a blue limestone base, becomes exceedingly beautiful, undulating just enough to beautify the scenery and shed the water. Seldom can an acre of woods be seen together—nothing but rows of trees or little clumps of forest appearing in the distance. Away from the villages the population is sparse; although the country has been well cleared, seldom do we find houses averaging one to the mile along the line.

Lexington must have been a charming place before the war broke out. Situated near the heart of the "blue grass region," it has tributary to it one of the most delightful sections of country upon which the sun ever shone. Associated with the names of Henry Clay, Dr. Dudley, Rev. Dr. Breckinridge, and the seat of Transylvania University, it became celebrated, as well as affluent. As a surgeon, Dr. Dudley's cures of lithotomy conferred a halo upon that institution that placed it at the very top of our medical schools. In May, 1863, the Medical Hall was destroyed by fire, the building being then occupied as a United States military hospital. It is believed that the fire was purely accidental. The buildings occupied for the literary department are now occupied as a hospital, and contain nearly three hundred patients, all belonging to western regiments. The grounds are badly cut up, and the outbuildings somewhat dilapidated. A bill has passed the Legislature of Kentucky, reorganizing this institution, which is to be consolidated with the Reformers' University at Harrodsburgh, the State Agricultural College constituting a separate department in connection with it. The endowment of the new university will amount to $600,000; and a curious provision is inserted in the bill, namely, that the professors shall be selected from different religious denominations, to constitute a "happy," as well as a learned family. I should add that the commissioners are negotiating with the widow of the late James B. Clay for the Ashland estate, which lies within two miles of this city. She has offered it for $85,000, and it is said that more than this can readily be raised by voluntary contributions. As an experimental farm, this would be a becoming disposition of the estate of the gallant "Harry of the West."

I visited the premises this morning, the house being about a mile and a half from Lexington, in the southeast direction. The house is a two-story brick structure, with wings thrown out on both sides. The grounds were tastefully, though not lavishly, ornamented with trees and shrubbery, the prospect from the front being unsurpassed for sweetness. The road out is through an exceedingly attractive suburb.

AGRICULTURAL MATTERS.

The prospect is, that during the ensuing Summer, the amount of grain planted will be far less than it has been during the past three or four years. The farmers are sowing their fields down in grass quite largely; others are hiring out their estates and moving to town. I have just heard of one farm of 600 acres which has been hired out this year for $1,750. The price of land is not less than $100 per acre, no matter in what condition; from that figure it runs up to $500, according to proximity to town and the improvements made. For dairy products, no region is better adapted than the blue grass country, comprising about twenty counties in the interior of this State.

There is a great scarcity of "horse-flesh" hereabouts, on account of the ravages of the guerrillas. Those to the eastward who have horses are careful to conceal them, where they cannot be readily found. To hire a team is an impossibility, for less than $10 a day, although we have a decent garrison here, and another at Fort Nelson to the eastward; yet the number of carriages visiting town from the country is by no means inconsiderable.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

Important changes have taken place in the business of this city during the past three years. Its population has increased largely of late, so that there is not a residence or apartment to let from one end to the other. Large numbers of men have come in as merchants, particularly during the past eighteen months and from the Northwest. The new class of business men are not only loyal, but upright and respectable who are acquiring the confidence of the "old settlers." The Germans here, as in Covington, are among these persons; and I could not but be struck with the happy alliteration on a sign-board, on which appears the names of "Frank & Fred. Fritch," of the new order of F. F.'s.

Before the war there were in this place manufactures of wool, cotton, hemp and iron; also of harness and carriages. One machine shop and foundry was burned, and another is now in operation; the shell of a woolen mill is now used as a barracks, and another is running; so is the cotton mill. There is a report that others will be resuscitated at an early day. The town is somewhat tattered from the effects of raids; but there is no security of money hereabouts; and there is as manifest a disposition to make money, while times are good, down here, as in Wall-street or Broadway.

ABOUT EMANCIPATION.

Though the Legislature did not clinch on the other side the nail driven in by Congress, it is believed that the Emancipationists are a majority of the voters in this State. Many of them were deterred, last Autumn, from voting in the eastern and southern counties, by threats of burning their houses; others were induced by the persuasions and deceptions of Gov. Bramlette and his friends. Mr. Bailey believes that, nevertheless, in the present Legislature an emancipation majority vote would have been given were it not for the influences of the large planters, who frequent Frankfort in large numbers during the session, and dispense their hospitality with sometimes evil effect upon members. But the question of ratification will constitute the great casus belli to be fought at the polls next November. If the Free State vote can be drawn out in all its numerical strength, and actual returned rebels are kept from voting by making them swear allegiance, as they were not made to do last year, it is believed that both Houses will be carried by the Emancipationists.

The Union and emancipation cause here is well sustained by the National Unionist, a semi-weekly, published by Mr. G. W. Lewis, a Virginian. Although barely a year old, it has obtained a good circulation and a decent support. Its effect was shown in the November election here, when the Lincoln and Johnson ticket received a majority of over three hundred votes.

OUR HAVANA CORRESPONDENCE.

Details of the Siege of Oajaca.—Jaurez still in Chihuahua.—Romeo, the Guerilla Chief to be tried by Court-martial.—Inauguration of the Railroad to the Capital.—Arrival of the Spanish and Italian Ambassadors at Vera Cruz.—Imperialist triumph at Tuxpam and other places.—Matamoras. Valuable Prize at the Havana Bazaar.

Havana, Wednesday, March 8, 1865.

The English mail steamer Eider which arrived here yesterday from Vera Cruz, brings news from Mexico city up to the 28th of last month, and from Vera Cruz to the 3d of March.

The Mexican papers give the following ample details of the siege of Oajaca:

On the 20th of January, the city was entirely surrounded and the supply of water cut off. On the 22d, the besieged made a sally in which they were repulsed, suffering losses and being forced to shut themselves up in the place, abandoning their cannon. The labor of sapping and mining was then began along the whole line, and carried on slowly but surely, notwithstanding the incessant firing from the town, which, however, did little damage. It was noticed that the greater part of the projectiles thrown by the besieged were of lead or bell metal.

On the 3d of February the besieged posted themselves so as to oppose vigorously the prosecution of the siege. On the 6th, the Second regiment of Zouaves occupied one of the suburbs of the city. The time for more active preparations being at hand, Marshal Bazaine removed his headquarters to the hacienda of Montoya, about a mile from Oaxaca.

On the night of the 6th, and the following morning, a mortar battery was planted at four hundred yards from the nearest fort, against which a regular and continued firing was directed. About four hundred projectiles were thrown on the 7th and 8th. On the night of the latter measures were arranged to take the position on the following day.

Fortunately, these measures were not required. About midnight Porfirio Diaz presented himself at the French outposts, accompanied by an aid-de-camp, and asked to be taken to the Marshal. Two hours after an unconditional surrender had been agreed to.

Speaking of the existence of French deserters among the Republican troops, of the number of whom exaggerated reports, as the Franco-Mexican papers characterize them, had been circulated. The Mexican paper, the Nouvelle Ere, says as follows:

"The deserters were said to be by hundreds, and they are not even to be counted by dozens. The greater part had been incorporated in a select squadron, called the Garibaldi Guard. The fort that was to have been attacked on the 9th, if the town had not surrendered, was commanded by three of the deserters, Adolfe Compere, Emile Hervieux and Stephen Gavilau. They were aided by a German named Carl Remscheidt, ex-sergeant of the Foreign Legion."

The number of prisoners taken at Oajaca amounted to about 4,000, who were immediately marched to Etla, and were afterward to be transferred, it was reported, to Puebla. The leaders, Porfirio, Diaz, and Salinas, were on their way to the capital as prisoners of war, with about 300 officers of the garrison of Oajaca. A part of the troops of the Empire engaged at Oajaca have left for Tabasco and Tehuantepec. Marshal Bazaine returned to the capital on the 25th ult.

A division, consisting of two companies of the Sixty-second Regiment of the line, a squadron of Chasseurs d'Afrique, and a mountain battery, altogether 300 men, arrived at Mazatlan on the 31st of January, under the orders of Col. Cottezel. Another column of 800 or 900 men, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Depleanquez, left Mazatlan on the 1st of February, on an expedition in the neighborhood. The number of French soldiers in the State of Sinola at the latest dates was calculated at 7,400 men.

Juarez, at last accounts, was still in Chihuahua, and continued exercising his power, in accordance with the advice of his Privy Council, in whose opinion the legal end of his Presidency would not be until November. Negrete was acting as Secretary of War, having succeeded in raising an army of about 7,000 men. The French forces that left Durango for Chihuahua had arrived at Mapimi, but were said to be inferior in number to the Mexicans.

The guerrilla chieftain Romero arrived at the capital on the 18th of last month, and was confined in the citadel until he was tried by a court-martial. The Estafette describes him as entering the city riding on a mule, which a Zouave held by the bridle, while another soldier walked along on the opposite side holding fast a cord with which the lower part of the prisoner's body was bound, so that he could not by any means escape. An escort of French and Belgian soldiers closed up the procession. The people assembled in groups with the greatest curiosity, to see pass by the guerrilla chieftain who for a long time had evaded the pursuit of the Imperialists.

The Opinion, of Jalapa, announces a victory obtained by the Imperialists over the Republicans of Teziutlan, the loss on the side of the Imperialists was one Captain, and five privates killed and 29 wounded. They made 140 prisoners, as well as taking a flag, a large quantity of arms and ammunition and 100 horses.

The commencement of the earthwork at the base of the Sierra de Maltrata, for the Vera Cruz and Mexico Railroad, was inaugurated on the 13th of last month, and on the 24th the English engineers left Vera Cruz, to superintend the beginning of the works at Chiquihuite. The road is already marked out as far as Cordova.

The report that Tuxpam had been taken by the Republicans is contradicted by the Imperialists. According to the accounts of the latter, Tuxpam was attacked by the Republicans in number very superior to the little garrison, which fortified itself on a hill near the town, from which they valiantly drove the enemy back. The force of the latter consisted of 600 infantry, 100 artillerymen with three pieces, 50 dragoons of New-Leon, and a guerrilla band formed at Papautla. M. Tesson, an officer of the French navy, and 12 men of the Colbert, maintained on the hills three attacks—35 dead bodies being found round about them. On the part of the Republicans, there were two Captains killed, and the artillery Captain, Rolando, was mortally wounded. The above news was brought to Vera Cruz by the Tactique, which arrived on the 25th ult.

The news of the submission of Gen. Echeagaray and of the ex-governor of Colima Don Julio Garcia to the new order of things has it appears been confirmed.

A private convoy, with about $600,000, was expected at Vera Cruz from the capital.

Mr. Scherzenlechner, the Emperor's private counselor, was on his return to Europe and had arrived at Vera Cruz for the purpose of going by the next steamer.

Zacapoaxtla was taken by the Imperialists on the 17th ult. Part of the Republicans who were defeated at Teziutlan collected at the above named place, with the intention of resisting the Imperial troops, but, according to the accounts of their opponents, they were unsuccessful. This event, and the capture of Oajaca, are looked upon as having brought about the pacification of another great part of the Empire. Zacapoaxtla, according to the official dispatch, was taken by the Austro-French forces, the loss of the Imperialists being only 15 wounded.

The English mail steamer, on her last voyage to Vera Cruz, took out the Spanish Ambassador the Marquis de la Rivera, the Italian Ambassador the Count de la Tour, and Mr. Middleton, the Secretary of the English Legation.

The laws on public worship and secularization of church property were signed on the 26th ult. by the Emperor and the Minister of Justice, and would, it was expected, be published on the following day.

The following regulations have been ordered by the Secretary of the Interior with respect to Matamoras: A light is to be placed as soon as possible at the mouth of the Rio Grande; a college for girls to be established, under the care of the Sisters of Charity, the State giving the land for the building; steam engines to be erected, to pump up the water of the river, and conduct it, after filtration, to the houses, for which purpose a real is to be paid on every package brought to the city; a Committee of Colonization to be appointed, various private individuals having given lands for that purpose; a company has been formed for making a city railroad, which will commence operations immediately; it is proposed to open a new port called Jesus Maria, for which purpose the Secretary of the Interior is about to appoint a committee of engineers to make the plan of the coast and the other preliminary details. It is also proposed to make a railroad to unite Matamoras with the new port. Necessary orders have also been given for the improvement of the Treasury offices, as well as those of the corporation, and in short, everything that tends to the public improvement is to be carefully examined, such as the establishment of telegraph lines, extending the routes of stage coaches, regulating the dispatch of the mails, and betterservice in loading and unloading vessels, &c.

The Secretary of the Interior was honored in the highest manner by the inhabitants of Matamoras on his late visit to that city. The merchants gave him a dinner, where the greatest cordiality prevailed, and the Corporation invited him to a bull-fight, which was attended by the most distinguished people of the place. The Secretary of the Interior returned to Mexico City on the 26th ultimo, and spoke in high terms of the rapid progress made by Matamoras, particularly in its population, which he estimated at fifty thousand inhabitants.

The charitable bazaar for raising funds to establish an asylum for the very poorest class, which was opened some weeks back, was closed before the carnival. It turned out a complete success, any amount of objects being raffled for, by which large sums were obtained for the above-named charitable purpose. Many of the prizes were very valuable, but the most important was a necklace of diamonds, valued at $20,000, and bestowed on the charity by the Condesa de Villanueva, the widow of a rich Cuban landowner, who retired some years ago from the island to live in a convent at Madrid. The prize was given over to its fortunate owner a few days ago.

Capt. Maffit, of the Florida, is quite a lion among the rebels here. A few nights ago he was complimented with a ball and supper at the Hotel Cubano, to which the Confederates, male and female, flocked in large numbers.

The Red River Campaign.

Headquarters Camp Sheridan, Va.,
Sunday, March 12, 1865.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In a letter from New-Orleans, published in the Times of the 7th, and signed by Benj. C. Truman, there appears this statement:

"This corps, (the Sixteenth,) also behaved magnificently on the Red River campaign, and really saved the Nineteenth and Thirteenth Corps from total destruction near Pleasant Hill, on that river, a little less than a year ago."

No question will be raised as to the magnificent conduct of the Sixteenth Corps at Pleasant Hill, but the statement that it saved the Nineteenth Army Corps is a grave mistake.

Official reports will show, that after the cavalry and Thirteenth Corps had been routed on the 8th of April, 1864, near Sabine Cross Roads, the First Division of the Nineteenth Corps, the only part of it present, repulsed the enemy with loss and drove him from the field.

That on the next day at Pleasant Hill but one brigade of that division was broken, and from no fault of theirs, that the other two brigades stood fast during the battle, and that the brigade that was broken rallied and joined in the final charge against the enemy made by the division and the Sixteenth Corps, driving him from the field in confusion.

The Nineteenth Corps looks with equal pride upon the battles of Sabine Cross Roads and Pleasant Hill inscribed upon its banners, as upon those of Opequan, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, W.

A Cold-blooded Villian.—D. L. Bivins, who, it will be remembered, some time ago murdered his father, mother and wife at Woodstock, Mich., takes exceptions to the sale of photographs of himself by a business man at Hudson, because, as he alleges, they were taken over a year ago, with his uniform on, and do not resemble him now. He publishes a card, as follows:

Adrian, Mich., Feb. 28, 1865.

Editor Cleveland Plaindealer:

Please announce in your paper that the photographs taken and being sold by D. H. Spencer, Hudson, Mich., are not genuine ones, as they were taken with my uniform on, and do not resemble me now; but there will be some immediately before the public that are genuine ones, and taken with my clothes on at the time the deed was done, and such as wish to purchase will do well to wait and obtain the genuine.

D. L. BIVINS.

The Detroit Tribune says he is in the habit of circulating among the crowds who visit his cell cards containing the name, as follows: "D. L. Bivins, the murderer."

The present and prospective value of the stock of this company may be inferred from the fact that it owns a fee-simple interest in 473 (four hundred and seventy-three) acres of the richest tested oil territory in Venango County, believed by the most experienced oil men in that region, to be capable of producing a net annual income to the company, of one and a half million of dollars, or three times the entire cost of the stock, which would be equivalent to twenty-five per cent. a month on its subscription price, or, one hundred and fifty per cent. per annum on its par value.

A FEW PLAIN WORDS TO SUCSCRIBERS.

The basis on which the company rests, it is believed will make your investment, not only safe, but, prospectively, of enormous value, because, at the present price of oil, the company's annual receipts, without any further development, are forty thousand dollars, or 8 per cent. on the cost of the stock.

The President, Mr. Stewart, is one of the most practical and experienced oil operators in the State, and his residence, near the company's property, and general oversight of its management, is the best guarantee that no efforts will be spared to make the investment profitable.

Books of subscription are now open at the office of EVANS & WORDEN, No. 71 Broadway, Room No. 71, where prospecti can be had and full particulars given. All communications promptly attended to.
